A history of family ties

Plumb Grove scene of first reunion since 1782 marriage

By KEITH PAUL
Staff Writer

CLEAR SPRING — The last time the Nesbitt and Cripe families got together was when Catherine Nesbitt and Samuel Cripe were married in Clear Spring.

That was in 1782.

On Sunday, the two families met again at Plumb Grove, the home of Catherine's brother Jonathan.

The two families found each other with the help of the Clear Spring Historical Association and the various family members, said Jerry Cripe of Liberty, Ill., the great-great-great-nephew of Catherine and Samuel.

The Cripe family has been getting together for about 10 years. In recent reunions, they have been going to various spots where they can trace the movement of their ancestors.

This year they traveled to Clear Spring to be reunited with part of their family, said Jann Cripe of Los Angeles.

She added that the family name went through some transformation from Gripe to Cripe.

"We're just trying to find out about the history of the family. Unlike many genealogists who are only intrested in births, deaths and marriages, we try to understand what it was like for them back then and where they were," Jerry Cripe said.

The Cripes spent the day looking at the places where the family was once located, said David Wiles, president of the Clear Spring Historical Association , who helped the families to organize the reunion.

"The Cripe family came here after about 215 years, so we wanted to do our part. If people can trace their family to here, we are pleased to help," Wiles said.

By Kevin G. Gilbert

The Nesbitts and Cripes got together Sunday at Plumb Grove..

The descendants of the Nesbitts and the Cripes meeting each other for the first time on Sunday talked about their families and shared genealogies of the two families connected by the marriage.

Jann Cripe said Catherine and Samuel probably moved from the Clear Sping area to Huntingdon County, Pa., citing their listing in the 1790 census of that area, and other ancestors had moved west.

The families were happy to be united with a part of their ancestry that was lost for so long.

"We knew they had gone west, but we never had any contact with them. I had never met any of them before today," said Nora McDonald Snyder, 85, whose great-grandfather Jonathan Nesbitt Sr. was Catherine's brother.

Nora's sister Lillie McDonald Fiery, 90, said she was glad that she had a chance to meet the Cripes.

Bill Cripe said it has been within the last year that he learned he is a direct descendant of Catherine. She is his great-great-great-great-great-great-grandmother, he said.

Bill Cripe, from Zionsville, Ind., said he is glad that he made the trek to Clear Spring saying that it was hard to describe the way Plumb Grove and meeting part of his family made him feel.

"I love history and to walk where they were and to try to know what it was like," he said.

The Cripe family reunion will be somewhere in Pennsylvania and all of the Nesbitts are invited to come, Jerry Cripe said. He added that a copy of the Cripe family newsletter will be sent to the historic society so that the Nesbitts will know the exact location.

The annual reunion will be back in Clear Spring in a few years, Jerry Cripe said. The Plumb Grove house has been turned into a museum and has been restored by the Clear Spring Historical Association, Wiles said.

The west half of the following described tract, to wit- Beginning 133 rods east of the northwest corner of the northeast quarter of Secti 26, in Township 23 north of Range 2 west, and running thence east 12 rods; thence south 79.98 rods, with and angle east of south 2.76 rods, thence west 12 rods, th north 79.98 rods, with and angle west of north 2.76 rods, to the place of beginni containing 6 acres, more or less, and containing in the tract hereby conveyed 3 acres, more or less.

That subsequent to the said deed his said father and mother deeded off of the south end of the said real estate to Arden White, all of the said lands which lie south of the Campbells Run Creek. That after said deed the affiant's said father and mother still retained title to all of the said lands as above described which lies north of the said Campbells Run Creek. That said lands retained by them con- tained 1.5 acres, more or less. That the said lands retained by them was situate in the town of Rossville, Ross Township, Clinton County, Indiana, and in said Ross Township. That the amount situate in the said town of Rossville was 1.13 acres, and that the amount situate in Ross Township contained .37 acres. That said deed to his said father and mother as hereinbefore referred to was made to them as hus- band and wife. That after the death of his said father his said mother, Maggie C Cripe became the fee simple owner thereof. That after the death of his said moth Maggie C. Cripe, as herein stated, this affiant, Herbert W. Cripe, as the survivi son and as the sole and only heir of both said Isaac J. Cripe and Maggie C. Cripe, became the owner in fee simple of all of the said real estate hereinbefore descri containing 1½ acres, more or less, which lies north of said Campbells Run Creek, which would be the north part of the lands hereinbefore described as shown in said deed record 178 page 4 of the deed records of Clinton County, Indiana.

Affiant makes this affidavit in order to show the line of heirship for said real estate and in order to have the title to the same transferred from the said Isaac J. Cripe and Maggie C. Cripe to this affiant as their sole and only heir, and in order to have the same transferred on the tax duplicate of Clinton County, Indiana.

Affiant further states that there was no administration upon the estates of either of the said decedents. That all of the debts and liabilities of his said father, Isaac J. Cripe were paid by this affiant and by his mother, Maggie C. Cri including the expense of last sickness and funeral. That after the death of his said mother, Maggie C. Cripe, this affiant paid all of the debts and liabilities of the said Maggie C. Cripe, including the expense of her last sickness a funeral and doctor bill. And affiant has in his possession the receipts for funeral ex- penses and doctor bill for each of said affiants. That all of the debts and lia- bilities of both of said decedents, his said father and mother, have been fully paid and satisfied and all of the assets thereof distributed to this affiant. That this affiant therefore, as such sole and only heir, is now the owner in fee simple of all of the first above described real estate which lies north of said Campbells Run Creek.

Further affiant says not.

Sarah Catharine Cripe: Mrs. Andrew Hufford & Mrs. John Thomas

- by Alice Marie Beard

Sarah Catharine Cripe was born into a Brethren family in 1833 in Rossville, Indiana, a town which even in 1997 has only one flashing light. At 16 she married Andrew Hufford, a young man from another local Brethren family. She birthed their first of 14 children a year later.

In 1864, at age 31, she delivered a baby who died the same day. The baby was buried among family at the Pleasant View Cemetery, Rossville, Clinton Co., IN. At 43, she delivered her 13th child; at 48, her 14th child.

Eight months after giving birth at the age of 48, she lost her husband in an accident as he was working to dig a well on their property. She had him buried next to the baby they'd buried 17 years before.

Sarah Catharine was a 48-year-old widow with an 8-month-old baby, a 5-year old, a 12-year-old, a 15-year-old, a 16-year-old, and an 18-year-old. She had children older than that who certainly helped out the widow woman and her children, and she was surrounded by family -- both hers and her late husband's. Still, she was a 48-year-old widow with an 8-month-old baby in the dead of winter in the corn-belt of Indiana.

Two-and-a-half years later, she married again on May 18, 1884, in Carroll Co., IN, to John H. THOMAS. All that is known about Mr. Thomas is that he was Brethren, and that he survived Sarah Catharine when she died 23 years later. She was buried with her first husband and the baby they lost in 1864.

Her obituary was found glued to the inside cover of the Bible of her daughter Elizabeth. The obituary appeared to have been cut from a church bulletin:

> Thomas, Sister Sarah Catharine, nee Cripe, died at her home in Pyrmont, Ind., Feb. 2, 1907, of paralysis, aged 73 years, 1 month and 8 days. She was born in Clinton County, Indiana. She was married to Andrew Hufford at age of 16. Soon after she, with her husband, joined the Brethren church, and remained faithful. To this union were born fourteen children, all living but one. The father died Dec. 6, 1881. She was married a second time to Bro. J. H. Thomas, who survives her. Some time before her death she called for the elders and was anointed. Services by A. G. Crosswhite at the Pleasant View church.

Ran onto a book at the library today that I didn't know we had - and what do you know - Elma was in there! Gonna see if I can take it home and look this thing over.

Elma Marion Eikenberry was b. July 27, 1884 and served in WW I. He married Della May Clear. He died October 3, 1967. He was the son of Franklin Eikenberry, b. 2/15/1856 who married Mary Alice Ford, daughter of William of Christena Friend Ford. Franklin was the son of Joseph & Elizabeth (Elder) Eikenberry. Joseph was born 2/25/1824, prabably in Union Co., IN. On 11/13/1851, he married Elizabeth. In 1860 the family resided in Warren Twp., Clinton Co., IN. Joseph died 3/11/1880. They had at least 10 children: Abraham, Isaac (1853-1911), Sarah Jane (1854-1855), Franklin, Mary E., Jememiah (!), William, Delilah, Malissa, Christa E.

Joseph was the 2nd child of the 15 children born to Daniel Eikenberry (1799-1859) and his wife Sarah Kingery. Franklin died May 7, 1892. Mary Alice then remarried about 1897 to David Alexandre Finney (1839-1911) at Frankfort, IN. They had 2 children: Mary Christena Finney b. 4/17/1899, Clinton Co., married Luther Benge 2/2/1918 2nd child Levi B. ? b. 2/6/1901, m. Flossie Wilson.

Mary Alice Ford Eikenberry Finney d. at Rossville, IN on 10/11/1905. Buried at Hopewell Cemetery near Beard. Elma had one brother: Alva Clifton Eikenberry, b. 2/16/1891 near Middle Fork, IN, m. Effie Benge 8/24/1913. He d. 1926 near Beard, IN. His father died when he was 1; was raised by aunt and uncle, Ed and Margaret (Ford) Rice, who did not have any natural children of their own. Clifton lived in Clinton Co. all his life where he graduated from Beard school with honors. Effie was b. at Elwood, IN on 9/23/1892 to George & Alice Hines Benge. Clifton died 3/12/1926. buried at Hopewell Cem.

They had six children. Effie Eikenbery remarried 1/8/1934 to Elvy O. Sheets, a widower with 5 children. He d. 1951. Effie d. 6/27/1977 at Kokomo, IN bur. at Hopewell. Clifton and Effie's 6 children: Wilbur m. Donna Newport; Mary Alice m. Clifton Crum; Betty Helen m. Charles Hollingsworth; Paul Franklin m. Ivaloue Howell; Joseph Albert m. Peggy Railsback Branch; Margaret May m. Richard J. Campbell.

Wow - that's a lot of stuff - don't know if you want any of it or not - but going right home to try to connect these Eikenberry's up to my lines.

April 14, 1955

Mrs. Nancy Ellen Logdston HIBBS of Westmoreland died April 1, after an illness that has kept her bedfast for over ten years. Mrs. HIBBS was born in Ozawkie December 13, 1866.
In 1889 she married Enoch REAVIS of Ozawkie who died in 1912. Several years later she moved to Fostoria and was married to Charles F. HIBBS in 1917. In 1922 they moved to their home in Westmoreland where they lived until his death in 1954.
She was a member of the Christian Church at Westmoreland where funeral services were held, with the Reverend Warren Jackson of Manhattan in charge. A group of students from Manhattan Bible College sang for the service.
Among the survivors are William REAVIS of Topeka, Walter REAVIS of Perry, and harvey REAVIS of Manhattan.
Burial was in the Westmoreland cemetery

OBIT - Grover A. Goings

Grover A. Goings, 79, 924 East Firmin St., died unexpectedly at his home early Wednesday morning following an apparent heart attack.

Born Jan 6, 1889, in Durham, Mo., he was the son of James and Mary Ann (Cripe) Goings. He had lived in Kokomo since 1937.

In 1910 he was married to Miss Elizabeth Nunn, who survives. He attended the Trinity Methodist Church.

He was a manufacturer of livestock food supplement.

Surviving with the widow are three sons, Loren Goings, Kansas City, Mo., and Chester and Harold Goings, both of Kokomo; a daughter, Mrs Thelma Stonger, Kokomo; six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Friday in the Ellers Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Kenneth Greenwood officiating. Burial will be in the Sunset Memory Gardens Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. Thursday.

vs. } Complaint.
Joseph Cipe }.

Catherine Cipe complains of Joseph Cipe and says that the plaintiff and defendant were married in the year 1872. in Clinton County Indiana. That plaintiff has been a bona fide resident of the State of Indiana for the twelve years last past, and has resided in Ross Township in Clinton County in the State of Indiana for the two years last past. That since her marriage she has deported herself as a dutiful, affectionate and faithful wife, that said defendant, disregarding his marital vows and obligations has refused to support the plaintiff and for more than two years last past has not made suitable provision for his family, that he has utterly failed & refused to make any provision at all for her support and has cruelly & wickedly neglected her— That there has been born to them one child Mary Ellen aged two years & she asks that she be forever divorced from said defendant, that she have the custody of their said child and judgment for three hundred dollars by way of alimony and for all other proper relief,

MRS. MARY CRIPS DEAD; MOVED FROM THIS COUNTY

Had Reached the Age of 91 Years and Died at the Home Hospital.

Mrs. Mary A. Crips, one of the best known women of Lafayette, died at the ripe age of 91 years at the Home hospital yesterday afternoon at 4:20 o'clock. Her death was due to the infirmities of age, superinduced by a shock from a fractured hip which she received while attempting to get out of bed at the hospital last Sunday morning, says the Lafayette Journal.

Mrs. Crips was the daughter of Matthew and Ruth Bunnel and was born in Butler county, Ohio, on Aug. 12, 1817. She resided in that county for about ten years, and in 1828 came with her parents to Clinton county, locating near Frankfort. In 1836 she was married to William Crips, who died of cholera in 864. To this union six children were born, three of whom survive. They are Mrs. Amos B. Moore, 650 North Eighth street; Mrs. Mary J. Moore, of West Lafayette, and Mrs. Lida Roach, of Jacksonville, Ill. Mrs. Crips came to Lafayette in 1846 and had resided here and in this vicinity since that time.

The funeral services will be conducted from St. Paul's M. E. church Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. L. S. Smith, assisted by Dr. A. C. V. Skinner, will officiate, and the interment will be made in Greenbush cemetery.

which, supplemented by close observation and business contact with his fellows in after years, has made him an intelligent and well-informed man. Mr. Coyner was married in Montgomery county, Ind., October 18, 1842, to Hannah Little, daughter of Ezra and Elizabeth (Martin) Little, early settlers in this county, and began housekeeping on a forty-acre tract of land, which he purchased from the government. This land was wholly unimproved at the time, and he was compelled to work hard for one year in order to obtain sufficient money to pay the entry price of the same. His first residence was a diminutive log cabin, in which some of the happiest days of his life were passed, and with the assistance of his good wife, who was indeed a true helpmate, he soon succeeded in improving his condition and in due season had a good farm in cultivation with an additional number of acres. Mr. Coyner proved a successful manager, and by judicious investments became the possessor of a large amount of land, aggregating 500 acres, the greater part of which he has since generously divided among his children, giving to each of them forty acres. The names of his children are as follows: William, Joseph, Phœbe, Alpheus, John, Etta, Minnie, Orlando, and Morton. Of the above, Alpheus is deceased, dying at the age of twenty-one; he was an exemplary young man and consistent member of the Methodist church.

Mr. Coyner has a beautiful home, his farm being supplied with a fine modern residence and other buildings in keeping, and for years he had been looked upon as one of the successful agriculturists of Perry township. In the growth and development of the county he has been no unimportant factor, and although not a seeker after official honors, he has frequently been solicited by his fellow-citizens to accept positions of trust which, with the exception of trustee, he has steadily refused. He is a member of the Methodist church, to which he contributes liberally of his means, and in political matters is an earnest and outspoken supporter of the republican party.

DANIEL E. CRIPE, M. D., is a native of Indiana, born in the county of Howard on the fifth day of May, 1850. His grandfather, Joseph Cripe, a native of Ohio, was one of the earliest pioneers of Clinton county, Ind., moving here as long ago as 1824, and locating near the present site of Rossville, where he entered a large tract of land and became a farmer of much means. In early life he learned the cooper's trade, and worked at the same in connection with agricultural pursuits after becoming a resident of Clinton. He was a man of character and true worth, and died on the home place a number of years ago. His son, Isaac Cripe, the doctor's father, was born in Darke county, Ohio, January 6, 1815, and at the age of nine years was brought by his parents to Clinton county, Ind., where he grew to manhood on a farm. He was married, in 1839, to Sarah M. Daniels, after which he moved to Howard county, where, until 1876, he worked at his trade, that of stone-mason. He was a member of the German Baptist church, and from the above year until his death, which occurred April 17, 1893, was an acceptable minister of the same, making his residence during that period in the county of Carroll. Isaac Cripe was a man of much more than mental endowments, and he was quite successful as a farmer, while his work in the ministry bore good results in the strengthening of his church and in leading many people to the higher and better life. Isaac and Elizabeth Cripe were the parents of the following children: Jonathan, who was a member of company E, One Hundred and Ninth Indiana volunteer infantry; George B., a resident of Carroll county, Ind.; Lucy E., wife of J. Wagoner, of Carroll county; and Daniel E., whose name introduces this notice.

Daniel E. Cripe remained with his parents until his tenth year, after which he made his home with Dr. Crider, of Pyrmont, Ind., until nineteen years of age, and for some time thereafter lived at the same place with Dr. Hall, studying medicine in the meanwhile. He pursued his studies diligently until nearly twenty years of age, when he began the practice at Pyrmont, Carroll county, Ind., where he remained until 1872, movihg to the town of Lexington in that year. Subsequently he practiced at Kilmore, same county, until 1877, at which time he located at Hillisburg, Clinton county; thence, in 1884, he moved to Frankfort, in which city he has since resided. The doctor traveled for two years in special work connected with his profession, and his success in the general practice and in surgery has been most gratifying. He was graduated from the Indiana Medical college in 1893, and the same year received his diploma from the Orificial college, Chicago, in both of which institutions he made a creditable record as a student. Since locating in Frankfort, he has built up a large and lucrative practice throughout Clinton county, and his services are frequently sought in obstinate and critical cases at remote distances from where he is located. As a physician, he is careful, conscientious and capable, and he is characterized by integrity of purpose and kindness of heart, which, with his well known ability in his profession, have won a permanent place in the regard of his fellow-citizens. In August, 1894, he was elected dean of faculty of the American Medical college of Indianapolis, and also has two chairs, viz: professor of general and clinical surgery and professor of orificial surgery. He is also vice-president of the board of trustees. The doctor was married April 7, 1872, to Sarah E. Mitchell of Tippecanoe county, daughter of Joseph and Melinda Mitchell. Dr. Cripe is a Mason, a member of the I. O. R. M., and belongs to the Knights of Maccabees.

WILLIAM ROSSER CUNNINGHAM —The success that has accompanied the career of the subject of this sketch is such as should encourage the youth whose outset in life may not be under the most favorable circumstances. Though of excellent parentage, Mr. Cunningham was not born nor reared in the luxuries of wealth. He was compelled to leave school at the age of ten years, to become the source of his own support, and in March of 1869, when just past the age of fifteen years, he began to serve an apprenticeship as a machinist, at La Fayette, Ind., his home and birth place. His birth took place January 4, 1854. His parents were William Rufus and Mary Ann (Rosser) Cunningham. The father was a native of Augusta county, Va., having been born there October 8, 1818. He died in La Fayette, Ind., July 24, 1880. He was a son of William Cunningham, whose wife was Mary Doak. The Cunninghams are of Scotch-Irish lineage, and belong to one of the oldest families of Virginia. The mother of William R. was born at Springfield, Ohio, in the year 1822, and died at LaFayette, Ind., in 1855. She was of Welch origin. Of the five children she bore her husband two died in early life; those living are—William R., Ella J., and Fanny D. The father married the second time, wedding Elizabeth Jordan, who had by him four children, namely—Edward, Annie, Emma and Alice; she died in 1882. The subject's father, with his parents and family, emigrated to Ohio from Virginia at an early date; they were opposed to slavery, though Virginians, and aided in operating an under-songs. We were led in a lively group sing by E. E. Wade. We then went to the gym where an effective pantomime was given and Miss Morell, health education director of the Y. W. C. A., directed games which were enjoyed by both old and young. At the same time Miss Prudence Romine entertained the children in another recreation room of the building.

One of the most pleasing features of this achievement was the wholehearted co-operation of every one. Miss Ruth Romine, general chairman, reported that not one person refused to assist in whatever part he was asked to take. All worked enthusiastically toward making the project a success. Others of the general committee were Homer Kimmel and Rollin E. Brunk.

The tables were tastefully decorated with centerpieces of Valentine motif by Mrs. R. C. Long and Mrs. Galen Wampler. Ladies in charge of the food were: Mrs. Ed Joyce, Mrs. Walter Murphy and Mrs. I. D. Long, and as food is a large factor in the lives of us all, these ladies received a great deal of praise for the success of the occasion.

The Y. W. C. A. was most generous in letting us use their building for this meeting at a minimum charge; however, we are eagerly looking forward to the time when we can have a building of our own where our growing group can meet for all occasions. The members of one Sunday-school class (with their families) made eighty-five reservations for the dinner. Because of sickness not quite all of them were able to attend, but that class felt that the meeting was decidedly worth while.

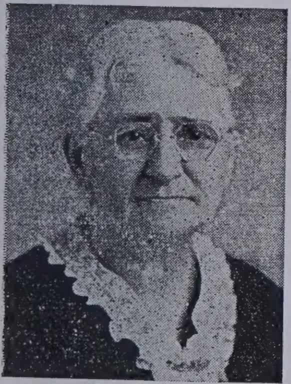
Mrs. Emma Jane Hufford Stong

Emma Jane Hufford Stong, second daughter of David A. and Mary Replogle Hufford, was born on Feb. 12, 1867, in Carroll County, Indiana, and passed away Feb. 21 at the age of 75 years and eight days, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Martin Kaufman, at Bisbee, N. D. On Feb. 28, 1886, she was united in marriage to John C. Stong, also of Carroll County. He preceded her in death on May 13, 1926.



In March of 1894 the Stongs with their two small children joined the group of Dunker emigrants who headed for Cando, N. D. Here they proved up their homestead, and here was their home through their years.

Mother Stong united with the Church of the Brethren at a very early age. She and her husband served in the deacon's capacity many years, being among the charter members of the Zion church, which is the mother church of the district of North Dakota and Eastern Montana. She was a woman of quiet and gentle disposition, a model homemaker and mother. Her home was noted for its hospitality and many found rest and comfort within its walls.

She was a faithful reader of the Messenger and her Bible was her guide. Following the example of her maker, her chief interest was the welfare of others.

Seven children blest the home of Brother and Sister Stong, two of them preceding her in death. Five children survive: Mrs. Wilburn Smeltzer of Wenatchee, Mrs. Martin Kaufman of Bisbee, David of Flint, Mich., Owen of Cando, N. D., and Fremont of Houghton, Mich. There are twenty-three grandchildren to revere the memory of a godly grandmother. Sister Stong lived to be a great-grandmother for only a few months. Two brothers also survive.

Funeral services were conducted Feb. 24 in the Zion church by Bro. Willard W. Smeltzer and interment was made in the Zion cemetery beside her beloved companion. The large audience in attendance and the beautiful floral offerings were mute evidence of the esteem in which she was held.

Cando, N. D. Mrs. Owen Stong.

The M. J. Mishler Golden Wedding

On Feb. 28, 1942, and March 1, Elder M. J. Mishler and Mary E. Mishler, celebrated their fiftieth wedding annive La Verne, California. On the 28th the family dinner was in the home of the parents by the parents, all the child
all the grandchildren except Don and Phyllis Mishler, of the son, Verne Mishler, of Conway, Kansas. Mrs. Harr rey and J. J. Yoder, sister and brother of Sister Mishler, also guests at the anniversary dinner.

On Sunday, March 1, more than two hundred friends and tives from far and near called at the home from 3:00 to 6:00 to congratulate the honored couple. A short program was dered at 4:00 o'clock, directed by Dr. S. J. Miller. Mrs.
Rothrock of La Verne sang Silver Threads Among the Gold ladies' speaking trio presented The Golden Wedding Bells
How Do I Love Thee. Short talks were given by Brethren
Yoder and S. J. Miller. The following were present at both 1892 and the 1942 occasions: Dr. S. J. Miller, Mr. and Mrs.
Mishler, Ira D. Yoder, all of La Verne, Calif.; Mrs. Earl (Edna Mishler) of Lindsay; Mrs. J. Z. Gilbert (Hattie Yoder)
Los Angeles; J. J. Yoder and Mrs. Harry Murrey (Laura Yo of McPherson, Kansas. The informal program closed with fitting benediction by the pastor, D. W. Kurtz.

M. J. Mishler and Mary E. Yoder were married on Sunday, 28, 1892, at the home of the bride's parents, Brother and Jacob D. Yoder, of Conway, Kansas. Elder G. E. Studebaker
the officiating minister.. They began their home life on a farm in the home community, but when Bro. Mishler called to the ministry by the Monitor church, they purchased farm nearer the church to enable them to make their more convenient. He took his turn in filling the pulpit with eral other ministers under the free ministry plan then in
On this farm most of their children were born and reared.

In 1917 they decided to leave the farm, and moved to New Kansas, where Bro. Mishler became the pastor of the New church. After three and a half years they moved to North California, and a few years later to Southern California
Verne, where he has been engaged as a contractor and They have always been active in church work, teaching in day school and he serving as elder of churches.

The children are Floyd of Santa Monica, Ralph of La
and Irene (Mrs. Glenn Dart) of Chino, all of California; Ver Conway, Kansas; Galen of Lebanon, Oregon. There are grandchildren.

OBITUARY—MILLER

John A. Miller, son of W. R. and Susan Miller was born June 17th, 1870, at Ozawkie, Kansas, and departed this life June 17th, 1940, at the age of seventy years.

On December 24th, 1892 he was united in marriage to Mrs. Sarah Root.

He leaves to mourn his departure his wife, one daughter Mrs. Ada Johnson, of Ozawkie, Kansas, two stepdaughetrs, Mrs. Cora Harding of Ozawkie, Kansas, Mrs. Anna Allison of Cummings, Kansas, four grand children, one brother, Mr. Frank Miller of Ozawkie, Kansas, one sister, Mrs. Lulu Owens of Mayetta, Kansas, also a host of friends and neighbors.

He was an adorable husband and father, a kind and gentle man, a friend to those far and near who knew him.

Forget him, no we never will,
We loved him then, we love him still;
His memory is as fresh today
As in that sad hour God took him away.

We desire to express our thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors for their kindness and helpfulness during our husband and father's sickness and death.

Mrs. John A. Miller and children.

The death of Mrs. Everett (Eck) Wells of the Leaverton neighborhood is noted in the Grantville items on page 7. Mrs. Wells was an aunt of Mrs. Lloyd Rogers.

S. SAMUEL COLE DEAD

PASSED AWAY LAST NIGHT AT HOME NEAR BOYLESTON.

Was Born in Clinton County and Lived Her Entire Life of Sixty-four Years Within Its Borders.

Last night at 8 o'clock, at the family home, one and one-half miles southeast of Boyleston, occurred the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Cole, wife of Samuel Cole, and one of the best known women of that community. Her death was due to heart trouble and terminated an illness of six month's duration.

The deceased was 64 years of age. She was born in this county August 30, 1848, and her entire life was spent within the borders of Clinton county. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cripe, pioneers of the Boyleston neighborhood, both now deceased. In February, 1866 she was united in marriage to Samuel Cole, who with six children survive. The children are Solomon I., Mrs. Louise Fox, Mrs. Savina Shearer, Naomi and Oscar Cole all of this county, and Mrs. Julia A. Bond of Winamac. She is also survived by five brothers, Rev. Nathaniel Cripe, Samuel, John, David and Clark Cripe, all of this county, and by three sisters, Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Crull of this county and Mrs. Booher of Tipton.

Mrs. Cole was a member of the German Baptist church and a devout christian woman.

Funeral services will be h
d. E. church in Boyles morning at 10 o'clo

THE WILLIAM WALKER FAMILY OF CLINTON COUNTY, INDIANA

The surname Walker derives from an occupational title, either a forester who made his rounds on foot or, more commonly, a launderer who used his feet to agitate the clothes being cleaned. Thus there are hundreds, perhaps thousands, of progenitors to whom this name was independently applied, and the task of trading out the separate lines of their descendants through all their wanderings is by no means an easy one. In the present state of our knowledge, we must start with the 1850 Federal Census of Johnson Twp, Clinton Co, IN, where we find the Walker families of William, John, and Elijah in close association (families no. 126, 120, and 121 respectively) and the more remote (family no. 79) and probably unrelated Jesse Walker. Incredibly, William's birthplace is given as Illinois (in 1794!). His wife Sarah was a North Carolinian, and they evidently moved from Ohio to Indiana between 1815 and 1821. Pending confirmation or correction from county records, I reconstruct the family thus:

[illegible], Great

I WILLIAM WALKER, b. 1794, d. after 1850, m. Sarah ----, who was b. 1794, NC.
  children:
  1 John Walker, b. 1819 OH, m. Nancy ----, who was b. 1822 OH.
  2 ELIJAH WALKER, b. 1821 IN, d. Aug 1883 Clinton Co IN, m. Amelia ---- , who was b. 1825 OH, d. between 1856 and 1860 IN. See further.
  3 Michael Walker, b. 1828 IN.
  4 Sarah Walker, b. 1832 IN.
  5 Mary Walker, b. 1829 IN.
  6 Lydia Walker, b. 1834 IN.
  7 Margaret Walker, b. 1836 IN.

ELIJAH WALKER, b. 1821 IN, m. Amelia ----, b. 1825 OH.
  children:
  1 Sarah N Walker, b. 1844 Clinton Co IN, m.(1) about 1865 to William V Weaver. m.(2) ---- Brown.
    children: Lydia, Martin, Elizabeth, and Jesse Weaver.
  2 Martin Walker, b. 1847 Clinton Co IN.
  3 WILLIAM WALKER, b. 1850 Clinton Co IN, d. 1928 Clinton Co IN, m. Catherine Cripe. See further.
  4 Salutia Walker, b. 1854 Clinton Co IN.
  5 Lydia Walker, b. 1856 Clinton Co IN, d. before 1883, m. Alfred Z Dunn, b. 16 Feb 1855 Clinton Co IN, son of Zethaniah Dunn and Elizabeth Pruitt.
    child: Laurence E Dunn.

The surname Cripe is of German origin. The earliest record we have found is the immigration of Jacob Greib (immediately anglicized to Gripe) to Philadelphia PA 28 Sep 1733 on the brigantine Richard and Elizabeth from Rotterdam. He was b. 1712 in the Palatine. In the history of the German Baptist Brethren (Dunker) Church, the name Gripe is listed among the founders of the Little Conewago congregation in Hanover Twp, York Co PA in 1738. The 1790 Federal Census of Huntingdon Co PA lists Daniel, Samuel, Jacob, and John Gripe as heads of families. The 1800 Census of the same county shows Daniel, Jacob, John, and Joseph Gripe. Moving west and multiplying, the family is found in Montgomery Co OH in 1820 where Samuel, Samuel, Daniel, Jacob, and Samuel Cripe headed families in Butler Twp and Jacob, Jacob, John, Daniel, John, Catharine, and Jacob Cripe in Madison Twp. In 1830 John and Abraham Crip are in Butler Twp, and John, Daniel, David, Jacob, Jacob, and John Gripe are in Madison Twp.

Several representatives of this family were living in Ross Twp, Clinton Co IN in 1850, giving us the following information:

JOHN CRIPE, b. 1785 PA, m. Isabel ----, b. 1790 PA.

CRIPE FUNERAL THIS AFTERNOON

Widely Known Citizen Expired at Home on Burlington Avenue Sunday

Funeral services for John H. Cripe, 76 years of age, stricken two weeks ago with paralysis died Sunday morning at 1:30 o'clock at his residence 602 Burlington Avenue. Burial will be in Bunnell cemetery.

Mr. Cripe, who was one of the most widely known men in the county was born in Ross township near Rossville September 2, 1856, the son of John C. and Rachael Cripe, and was one of a family of nineteen children, there being five sets of twins in the large family. His early life was spent in the vicinity of his birthplace and there he grew to young manhood. He was united in marriage to Elizabeth Jane Coffman, March 25, 1882.

In early life he united with the Church of the Brethren and held that affiliation until his death. Practically his entire life was spent on the farm and following his marriage he established his home north of Frankfort and continued residing in the county, on his own farm until a few years ago when he retired and moved to Frankfort. After becoming a city resident he continued his farm work for a number of years, driving back forth each day. Later he operated a small wagon about the city doing odd jobs of hauling. During the past summer his rapidly failing health caused him to retire from this work and he spent his full time visiting with his friends in the business district of this city.

Had Fixed Opinions

He is survived by his wife, three daughters:Lena Richardson and Katie Cripe both of Tipton and Mrs. Rena Walters near Frankfort, one son, Frank Cripe of Frankfort. Surviving him are two brothers, Nathaniel Cripe of Rossville, and Clark Cripe of Kansas;, two sisters Callie Crull, of Indianapolis, and a sister Emma, who resides in Washington. a sister Caroline of Alabama and Owen, a brother living in Salida, California.

Mr. Cripe was a man who had fixed viewpoints and ideas and he freely expressed his opinions and beliefs. However his friends admired him for his frankness. He was kind hearted and sympathetic and was often heard to express regrets when he learned of the illness of a friend or an acquaintance.

He was a frequent visitor to the business district of the city and each day regularly visited a number of business house passing a few minutes in each place, discussing events of the day. He was widely read in the current affairs of the world and likewise was a Bible student being familiar with practically all passages of this universal work.

His friends and they were legion will miss him for he always had a cheery greeting whenever he entered a place. He alwasy left with friends bidding him return.

Chapter 1

A Poor-man's Boy, 1888–1921

A factual picture of Harry Kroll's early life is obscured by the shading and stories he redrew about himself and his family later in life.[1] Throughout his "autobiographical" writing Kroll consistently spun the story that his parents were less-than-successful sharecroppers, led by an idealistic but unambitious father and superstitious, passively aggressive mother. Darius Wesley Kroll, as his son describes him, "was a smallish man, dark from weather and open sunlight and hard work; his hair, jet black, was beginning to [streak] with gray; . . . his expression was placid and without meaning." Though the description sounds harsh or unfeeling, it was a solid compliment paid by Harry to his father. His son consistently portrayed Darius Kroll as one who understood and accepted bone-hard work as an inalienable right; but Harry also painted his father as a man harboring a broad streak of dreamy, impotent idealism that impelled him to hunt ceaselessly for the sure-thing opportunity or place where "fried pigeons would fly into his mouth." Despite the picture of a work-faded man, Kroll's nostalgic affection for his father suffuses his writing about him, even when it seems uncomplimentary. Darius—pronounced with the emphasis on the second syllable—hailed from Indiana. Though official notices of him must exist in scattered public records, he left none of his own. The eleventh federal census taken in 1900 records him born in October, 1857. Virtually nothing is known of his early life and training. His youngest daughter, Natalie, recalled in the late 1970s that her father had worked a machinist in Muncie, Indiana before his marriage.[2] Given Darius's later documented work history this position was probably a semi-skilled trade, a reflection of the industrializing but still heavily human state of technology in the mid to late nineteenth century.

The picture Harry Kroll draws of his mother, Caroline or Carolina Cripe, is much less flattering but probably more accurate. Where Harry described his father's physical characteristics and hardly ever his mannerisms, his glimpses of his mother are exactly opposite. Kroll rarely described her physically beyond being "a thick-bodied, unbeautiful woman," with a sweat-stained, limitless capacity for hard physical work. More often he portrays her though her actions or speech, allowing her constant seeking for signs and portents, the demands she makes of her children's affections, and other unflattering glimpses of personality to speak for themselves. She was furious with the picture of her created in his writing, which she reviled for making her appear low and uncultured but clearly reflects the long-held anger Harry felt toward her. Family tradition traces her Dunkard family (more properly, German Baptist Brethren) indeterminately to the north and west corner of Indiana, between Indianapolis and Chicago. No precise record of her birth to John C. Cripe, Jr. and school was beginning, Harry Jr., whom Harry usually called "Son," was born at Mobile's Providence Infirmary on Commerce Street on September 7, 1920.[43] Both 31, Harry and Nettie Kroll became parents. Certainly Harry made a trip to Mobile to see his new son, but he would have returned to Columbia with his wife and baby boy to finish out the school session and his contract, a proud new papa, but one that was already planning a major move. By the end of the 1920–21 school year, nine months later, their boy was old enough, Annette well enough, and Harry had scraped together enough to take the risk on education. Having already sold the house and acreage in Dixons Mills two years earlier, Harry borrowed a thousand dollars from J. J. Harry's bank in Gulfport, Mississippi to move the family from south Alabama to a small house in Nashville on Division Street, three blocks north of the Peabody campus, just in time to allow him to attend classes full time for the 1921 summer term. The Krolls never returned to Alabama.

Rachel Ann Fouts Cripe has been located, but the 1900 census enumeration dates it to November, 1862.[3]

The "Dunkard" sect rose in Germany in the early eighteenth century. Their identity comes from the German term for baptism, tunken, which assumed an initial d when spelled in the U.S. Their distinctive practice of baptism distinguished Dunkards from other sects, even from other Protestants: only adults were baptised and the candidate was immersed face down three times while invoking the names of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. Two mass migrations from Germany in 1719 and 1729 brought virtually the entire church to Philadelphia among the early waves of German immigrants to the New World. From there they quickly migrated into mountainous Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, and later into the upper Midwest. Those in the mountains were swept up in the Second Great Awakening of the 1820s and integrated into the fire-eating Baptists widely described in Appalachian communities. Those in the Midwest maintained a tightly knit, pietistic group for another generation. They remained or re-created a cohesive social organization until the first years of the 1880s, then in a major cultural paradigm shift the sect stepped into the mainstream of American Protestantism by establishing Sunday schools, adopting the practice of a paid clergy, and creating a religious revival tradition. These measures split the denomination into description of a chicken-brooding arrangement called trap nesting. Both pieces had most likely been written in his Agricultural Journalism course. Harry Kroll's first published writing demonstrates that he had attained a surprising degree of sophistication as essentially a self-taught writer.[41]

[3] Twelfth U.S. Census (1900), Dyersburg city enumeration district 16, sheet 4; the description quoted is in his I Was a Share Cropper, 64. Being of German extraction, the family thinks that Caroline's family name Cripe may have been spelled Kreipe by earlier generations.

When Peabody's 1919 summer session closed, Harry returned to teaching in Alabama and did not carry credits between the 1919 summer session and the summer of 1921. His position was as school superintendent in Columbia, a town at the southeastern point of the state on the Chattahoochee River dividing Alabama from Georgia, and only a few miles north of the Florida line. The couple boarded with the widow Campbell, her two children and another young couple, the Domineys.[42] After eight years of marriage Nettie became pregnant between Christmas and New Years, 1920. The need to provide stability for her was probably why Harry did not return to Peabody for the 1920 summer session. Terribly fearful of possible complications, a very pregnant Nettie determinedly crossed the state to be with her parents in Mobile, where they had moved after Robert C. Heard's retirement, and closer to genuine medical care. As the late summer heat prickled across the landscape and just as three groups at almost exactly the same time that Darius Kroll and Caroline Cripe began their family.[4]

Harry Jr.'s attribution seems to have been made only on the strength of his memory as a toddler and is disproved by the census entry.

That Darius Krall or Kroll and Caroline Cripe met and married is a foregone fact, but the circumstances how and where they met does not survive in a written account, even among their son's writing or in family tradition. Their 1880 marriage is likewise lost in a dim county record somewhere; Darius married in his early twenties, Caroline in her late teens. About two years later Caroline delivered a baby boy, who is remembered only as Jimmy, and in 1885 another boy, Charles Blaine. Jimmy died while Charlie was still a baby, leaving the younger boy as the oldest child in the family. Harry Harrison Kroll was born to the couple at Hartford City, Indiana on February 18 or 19, 1888. A little more than a year later (May, 1889) a daughter, Mildred Catherine (Millie), was born. Finally in March, 1897, around the time they determined to move south, a second daughter, Natalie, was born.[5]

During his first term at Peabody in 1919 Harry took the "Agricultural Journalism" course. Undoubtedly in class he learned about the market for freelance magazine and newspaper writing, and regional publications specifically. In the early twentieth century Nashville was the South's center point for popular publication. Most of these were sectarian publications: church curricular materials and juvenile devotional and story magazines. The national publishing arms of one Pentecostal, the Cumberland Presbyterian, Southern Baptist, Methodist Episcopal Church (South), and Seventh Day Adventist denominations were all based in Nashville. Private companies like the Gospel Advocate, National Baptist Publishing Board, and Tennessee Book and Bible Publishing House also produced and disseminated material. Non-sectarian firms such as the Southern Agriculturist published across the Southeast, and the regional office of the R.L Polk directory publisher operated from city addresses as well. It was not an idle boast the business directory made when it noted that the city "is the center of the printing industry of the South. In volume of business, investment and number of employees in this industry, Nashville is larger than any two cities in the South combined."[40] There were plenty of possible venues for an enterprising new writer.

It must have been with some nervous excitement that Kroll either posted or delivered a few pieces to a publisher who catered to the world he knew. On the first day of September, only a few weeks after the Peabody summer term closed, Harry Harrison Kroll's name appeared in print for the first time over a story, "John Jones and His Hired Men" in the Southern Agriculturist. In it a farmer describes to an acquaintance the economic and labor issues involved behind motivating agricultural workers on his rural smallholding. Two weeks later the same magazine published Kroll's first piece of non-fiction, a practical

About 1890 the family sat for a group portrait. Like many portraits it presents a study of personality and circumstance. Darius and Caroline are bookends of the group, sitting at opposite ends of the family. She sits at the left of the picture in a collarless, plain, dark work dress with Mildred on her lap, eyes caught by the camera flicking down to check Millie. A neutrality on her face comes across as forced, leaving the slightest telltale of a tight-lipped frown as the image was taken. Charlie stands between his parents, the picture of a meek, round-faced five or six year old in close-cropped hair and wearing a sack coat over his shirt, the loose fist of his right hand holding on uncertainly to two fingers of his left. As far away from his wife as convenience will allow, Darius sits with legs crossed on a wooden kitchen chair, a violin stood upright on one knee with his elbow on a table beside the chair and the bow set casually across his lap. He has a rather weak chin, which he has offset with a broad but rather thin mustache. His hair is short without being cropped, but is shaped or styled only by leaving an unruly or at least ill-combed length on the crown. Darius' eyes glance off to a place beside the camera in an ill-timed, momentary distraction—symbolically, perhaps, it may appear as if he is distracted from the richness of the present by looking for some better, golden chance elsewhere. His bow hand rests on the left shoulder of his youngest son, Harry, who stands closely beside his father in a pattern-print dress. That attire was the common lot of young boys until they could make it regularly to the outhouse on their own. He is a normal child, until after a moment an inconsistency in the picture resolves to visual awareness: Harry's left arm is noticeably smaller than is his right. It is not a trick of light; as an infant Harry contracted a mild case of polio. The disease spared his lungs and legs but deadened many of the nerves in one shoulder and upper arm. While he had effective use of his fingers and some rudimentary mobility in the arm itself throughout his life, his left arm like himself, who were supplementing their state credentials by completing professional degrees in education.[39]

Admittance to college was a tremendous personal step, but rather than being an accomplishment in itself, taking that step plunged Harry into a new set of problems. One challenge was making the leap from rural to urban life. Related to that was the need to sustain themselves while he attended school. Money—or rather, the lack of it—was an issue. With both of them teaching at home in Alabama he and Annette could feed themselves from a garden and barnyard animals while saving salary money during the year, but a term at college, in a city lot without garden or barnyard animals to rely on, swallowed savings quickly. His teaching career itself presented another problem: if he were to attend college only during summer sessions his education would be a piecemeal proposition, drawn out over years. If he pursued it full time he would have to leave off teaching but sustain the family somehow. Going back to photography, farming, or millwork offered no adequate solutions. How he would solve the problem was still a mystery even as he arrived to begin his education on savings and faith in himself.

[39] The College itself was still relatively new, with the new Vanderbilt-adjacent campus dating from 1911. cf. "Creating the George Peabody Campus, 1911–1930;" academics are covered in the succeeding chapter, "The Academic Side, 1914–1930" in Paul K. Conkin, Peabody College: From a Frontier Academy to the Frontiers of Teaching and Learning (Nashville, Tenn.: Vanderbilt Univ. Press, 2002). The quote is from p. 210. Quite a good account of the beginnings of the school reform movement in Tennessee can be found in Jeanette Keith, "The Battle for the Schools," in Country People in the New South: Tennessee's Upper Cumberland (Chapel Hill: Univ. of North Carolina Press, 1995), particularly 131–136.

itself was essentially a deadweight. In photographs taken late in life he is often seen with his strong right hand cradling its twin protectively in front of him, or with the left hand hidden by convenient nonchalance in a trouser pocket.

Like so many rural nineteenth-century Americans, virtually nothing about the Krolls exists in records of any sort. With family homes two hundred miles north, why they went to Vincennes, when they arrived, and if they remained long enough for the two girls to be born there as well is a mystery (all the census enumerator recorded on his sheets in 1900 for anyone's place of birth was "Indiana"). Nothing at all about their early family life is known beyond a few pet names. Darius seemed to have been addressed by his first name by all his children, though Caroline was nothing beyond "Ma." As he was learning to speak, before their sisters were born, Harry seemed unable to pronounce the consonantal ch- and l sounds in Charlie's name, which became "Soddy" in his immature speech. Among the family the name stuck. Even sixty years later when he wrote his siblings, Charles neatly signed his name "Soddy." Milly became "Birdie." Natalie acquired the nickname "Hatch" from her oldest brother since he teased her mercilessly about being hatched under a rock rather than born. As the years passed, however the teasing took on an affectionate tone between them, though Mildred despised her identity with passion.[6]

In Indiana, the Krolls were among thousands of rural families uprooting from settled American farming communities, pressured from several directions. By the 1890s unclaimed arable property in the Midwest was becoming scarce and land prices were increasing. Family holdings of first- and second-generation immigrants was being divided to heirs in parcels too small to sustain them, small farmers were becoming casualties of the financial

Peabody College for the summer session of 1919, the year he turned thirty. In later years Nettie would take their children to her parents during summer vacations, but in 1919 the couple were alone and she may have accompanied him when he moved to Nashville.[38]

Though it was a year-round institution, the George Peabody College for Teachers was less than a decade old and served primarily practicing educators from across the South. The school was a great experiment that exemplified the Progressive era. Its best chronicle notes that the school was grounded in the practice of socially oriented education. Therefore, in becoming a Peabody student Kroll was broadening his own mission of boot-strap personal improvement. "Students felt this, gained confidence from it, and carried it with them as they went back to what amounted to their mission field—a benighted South[, with 80% of its population still rural and intensely agricultural,] awaiting the redemption that depended on dedication and commitment, on a type of learning that was fully integrated into all aspects of daily life." The student population at Peabody was a moderately small body of full-time students during the traditional September-to-May school year; it swelled dramatically during the two summer sessions as public school teachers flocked in to pursue their degrees during the long mid-year holiday. Most Southern states, not just Alabama, were consolidating, professionalizing, and upgrading their public education systems. In 1919 Kroll joined several thousand summer students from all over the South upon arrival at Peabody, working teachers panic and depression of 1893, and the average size of land holdings was growing as smaller parcels were consolidated in the hands of more successful farmers which, thanks to mechanization, could operate on a larger scale. The same developments in agricultural implements made possible the breaking and cultivation of new land in the huge open spaces of the treeless western plains. Midwesterners, particularly the Brethren and often as entire communities, responded to territorial land promotions on the high plains of the Dakotas and flocked westward to open the last homesteads of the century. A stronger draw, however pulled rural Americans toward the growing numbers of manufacturing jobs in burgeoning cities. The U. S. population had gravitated toward the cities as the country industrialized after the Civil War, but even as late as the 1890s a substantial percentage of the country's population was still rural, particularly in the South. Being of German Baptist extraction, Darius and Caroline Krall were undoubtedly aware of the sect's general dispersal among fourth- and fifth-generation families. The communities were assimilating quickly.

[38] Peabody College transcript, Kroll papers, Martin; Deed dated 1919 May 31, Marengo County deed book VV, p. 530. His transcript represents almost the only chronological window into this period of Kroll's career. The transcript errantly lists the examination site as "Dixonville, Alabama," a town on the Florida border, when it was correctly Dixons Mills.

For those who remained, crop diversification on individual prairie-state farms was shrinking and older traditional hand- and animal-powered agriculture was dying quickly. Creating the larger market-responsive farms of the Midwest and new settlement on the great plains was possible only through mechanization, which required capital. To maintain a working hold on traditional non-mechanical, family-based agriculture a crop change was required, away from cereal grains to grocery crops. With the new land of the Great Plains unsuited for this type of agriculture, some of the Brethren looked southward to newly cleared lands of the Pine Belt.

Farm mechanization was slower in the South since the region retained a large, essentially captive labor force of two races that could be played against each other, with a their ability to pass a uniform test." Before that gate closed, anyone well informed enough crib the exam at even a minimal level was qualified as a teacher. Harry Kroll had been one of those. Had he postponed his early career effort even five years Kroll would never have gotten the start in life that the school system offered. Without the trump card of formal education in his hand the future presented little outlook beyond the classroom, and even the attainment of a county school superintendency was becoming remote.[37]

Circumstances were slowly but certainly squeezing Harry Kroll in a new direction. Uninterested in changing careers, certainly more ambitious than other teachers, and realizing that he was handicapped without collegiate experience, Kroll determined bull his way into college just as he had into teaching. There were many teacher-training or "normal" schools across the country that could have given him basic qualifications within two years. He could have attended any, including Alabama Normal College reasonably close in Livingston, as Nettie had. Looking beyond a normal degree to the point where states might require an actual college degree of their teachers, supremely confident of his ability to study hard and retain effectively, he applied to the biggest school he knew. His target was the South's premier teacher-training institution, the George Peabody College for Teachers, situated in Nashville across the street from Vanderbilt University. Trusting his own abilities, with merely a year of formal schooling to his credit and therefore no school grades of his own, Kroll sat for qualifying college examinations at his own school in Dixons Mills. His highest marks were in English. Of the 22 credits or "units" for which he qualified by examination, English ranked the highest with four. The couple sold their house and acreage in Dixons Mills to raise money, and on the strength of those scores Harry Kroll was admitted to third wildcard—foreign immigrants—that could be played at will by property and industrial owners if the first two did not cooperate. All three groups could be bound down by the shackles of debt and the economy of scale that smallholdings represented. Southern farms, tied not to high-yield grains but to labor-intensive row crops like sweet potatoes, cotton, tobacco, and corn, tended to be divided into small operations under sharecropping or tenancy arrangements, or worked as small-holdings. Working for shares or as renting tenants against a line of credit, extended and accounted only by the landowner, virtually guaranteed that laborers could never progress up the "agricultural tenure ladder"—sharecropper to tenant, tenant to land-owning smallholder, smallholder to labor-contracting planter. In the 1880 census a large percentage of Alabama's white population had been smallholders, but land-ownership consolidation had occurred in this section too. By 1890 most rural whites had sold or defaulted on their land and become tenants. By the turn of the twentieth century the vast majority of Alabama land owners never actually worked on the land they owned. A large percentage of the state's populace—often off-season farm laborers—also worked for wages in the extensive Southern pinewoods extracting softwood lumber, turpentine, and hardwood lumber and veneers, or in the coalmines of extreme southern Appalachia, and in the steel and cotton mills that later sprang up.[7] Life in the Deep South for virtually all blacks and most whites, native or immigrant, was a ceaseless round of hard, unremitting work and frequent migration.

replace the charred timbers they discovered that the brick hearth and fireplace was merely laid over the cabin's wooden support timbers, insulated only by a thin bed of sand spread over the planking. The all-day stoking had heated the bricks enough to ignite a slow fire in the wood, which spread outward through the floor and eventually up the walls.[36]

While their teaching in rural schools seemed a relatively secure life for the moment, there were pressures on the Krolls that must have concerned them. School teaching certainly represented a more stable and fulfilling existence than sharecropping or tramping as a photographer, but it also suggested that life would be little more than a succession of short-term contracts without opportunity for further improvement. Kroll need only consider the situation of his alcoholic father-in-law to realize that teaching in Alabama appeared to be a dead-end career. Even by this time the importance of academic credentials was beginning to color hiring practices. School consolidation, mandated by the state in 1912, had two effects. First, it slowly reduced the number of schools with teaching contracts available. Second, consolidation began weeding out the less qualified instructors in preference to those who were formally trained. In 1914 the state legislature was shocked into mandating some level of at least secondary education for its teachers when it was discovered that 1,200 of the 1,500 third-grade certificates granted by the state had been granted to individuals with no professional training at all. "The reason for this . . . appeared to be that our certification law in Alabama made no difference in the requirements for the issuance of certificates in the case of the elementary school graduate, the high school graduate, the normal [school] graduate, the university graduate—all alike had to go through the same mill, being graded solely upon

Of course, promoters emphasized the opportunities inherent in the South's snowless climate and heavy forests. Nearly eighty years after the fact, the Kroll's youngest daughter recalled, or perhaps speculated, about the motivation that brought the family from Indiana to Alabama in their strange contravention to the general westward exodus of the Brethren at the time. "My dad heard that everything was wonderful down South," she said. "Somebody had made a trip to Alabama and [said that] everything was wonderful down there, they lived in big houses like a king and queen. Then my dad decided to come to Alabama. That's where they were headed for." If Natalie's memory accurately reflects her parents' motivation, it is tempting to wonder just what Darius and Caroline Krall had been told. It would be a guess, but a coincident German Baptist venture based in Alabama provides a tempting foundation upon which to speculate.

Among the Midwestern German Baptist communities was an undercurrent that flowed south, against the general emigration tides to the north and westward. Around 1895 one branch of the Brethren had bought large parcels of public land in west Alabama and were developing it specifically for their northern kin and fellow-believers. Given the timing of the Krolls' move, 1896, it is very likely that Darius and Caroline had seen or were at least aware of James M. Neff's baldly promotional Southern Almanac and Hand Book, published by a development company specifically to attract other Brethren families to a swath of yellow pine forest in the southwest corner of the state. In 1894 Neff had been a teacher at Mt. Morris College in Illinois who moonlighted in the Brethren's Publishing Company. Neff approached another educator, N. R. Baker from Mobile County, Alabama, about the possibility of establishing an educational and colonial enterprise somewhere in the sparsely settled areas of the South. In October, 1895 the Brethren's School Company was positions as probably the entire faculty at the Wesley Chapel school a mile or two east of Dixons Mill. They stayed in the area until 1917. In the summer of 1917 the couple accepted positions in a two-room rural school in Dixons Mills. Married six years and with a house and property of their own, they enjoyed a stability and financial security Harry had never known growing up. In 1913 the couple had bought out of a larger farm a six-acre parcel along Beaver Creek on which sat a small cabin. Now moving back, Harry devoted the summer to dressing up the accommodations, tearing off the rough plank siding and installing sawn finish siding. The interior he finished entirely with four-inch tongue-and-groove yellow pine flooring, a commodity which could be secured inexpensively from local sawmills. "For that day it was a cozy dwelling for a pair of country school teachers. I had a garden and a cow and chickens and no end of firewood on the place," he recalled fondly.[35]

That winter snow fell heavily in Memphis on December 7; by Christmas a cold front had inched its way toward the Gulf Coast, dropping temperatures and snow on the ill-prepared South. Harry stoked the cabin's fireplace into an inferno as the temperature dropped, futilely trying to burn enough wood to beat back the cold. The couple eventually gave up, covered the small windows with blankets, stoked another fire in the cook stove and finally went to bed, hoping to stay warm. About midnight they came awake as flames licked up the walls surrounding the fireplace. Shuttling slopping pails of icy water back and forth across flint-hard frozen ground between the backyard well and the house they managed to douse the fire, but robbed of a heat source in their living space they spent successive nights shuddering in the kitchen until the weather broke a week later. Digging out the damage to incorporated. Funded with several gifts of unoccupied land, which was to be sold to finance the school operations, a primary school was established in Fruitdale. The Deer Park Academy was acquired in a town of the same name, and Citronelle College was founded in a two-storey frame building there. While it was officially a private educational organization, the firm and its directors were closely tied to the Alabama Land and Development Company and were actively engaged in enticing colonists south from among the families of German Baptist extraction in more settled Midwestern areas across Iowa, Illinois, and Indiana. The Krolls were almost certainly among those who elected to try their luck among the sandy pines, but they managed to get to Alabama only after a ten-year delay.[8]

Though she was only an infant when the family left, Nattie later claimed that around 1896 Darius loaded the family and their possessions into a wagon and headed for Alabama (born in Indiana herself the next year, she was obviously off a bit). Seventy years or so later to the state Superintendent of Education, less than a quarter of the schools for Alabama's white children—1,079 of 4,570 schools in the state in 1913—had more than a single teacher for all grades.[33] Though the rates toward first-grade certificate were improving, many teachers were minimally qualified, barely out of school themselves. The only credential an individual required to teach school was the ability to pass the state qualifying exam, just as Harry Kroll had. In 1912 Harry qualified for a second-grade certificate and the following year reached the highest pinnacle of personal ambition he could imagine at the time in qualifying for a first-grade Alabama state teacher's certificate in 1913. Other successes would come later, but this second major achievement exemplified the strength of his internal drive for social self-improvement.[34]

Education in Alabama was overwhelmingly a rural issue through the entire first half of the twentieth century. The 1910 federal census summary placed 82% of the state's population in unincorporated areas or communities that did not meet the 2,500-resident definition as urban. Even if the standard for "urban" was lowered to towns with a 1,000-resident population, better than two-thirds of the state population still remained "rural." Since one-teacher schools were the rule among rural-district schools in Alabama, the Krolls could not be too choosy about where they worked. The years of their early married life were characterized by rotating between appointments in a succession of country schools. For the 1912–13 year they moved to Goodwater, east of Birmingham, followed by another one-year stint back across the state at Shiloh School, near Sulligent in Lamar County. In 1914 the Krolls managed to move south again, back to Marengo County, where they accepted she later recalled to one of Harry's sons that their family had managed to get as far as Dyersburg, Tennessee before the team wore out and the wagon broke irreparably. Harry opened his 1936 book I Was a Share-Cropper, which begins autobiographically as the weary and travel-worn family crosses the Mississippi River and pulls into West Tennessee, with precisely the same story. If the accounts are correct (and the accuracy of her memory and his book are somewhat suspect), then the family probably crossed the Wabash River and the southern tip of Illinois heading for the bridge at Cape Girardeau, Missouri. Turning south, they would have trailed through the cotton lands of the Missouri boot heel and ferried the Mississippi about where I-55 now bridges the river. Natalie, noted above, was an infant at the time; Harry would have been eight.

Frankly, there are problems with both versions of the story. The route is hardly a direct road between Indiana and Alabama. Harry's "memoir" as a whole was essentially fanciful, based loosely on fact, but only loosely, and Nattie's old-age reminiscence, the only other account of the family's early life, is suspect because it parrots her brother's book in so many details. A skeptic could speculate that because Share-Cropper was so prominent in family politics it is possible that the whole story about limping into Dyersburg was simply invented by Harry and unwittingly assumed to be accurate by his youngest sister because their mother hated his book so badly. Yet if Nattie's version is not accepted at face value (she was, after all, an infant at the point she describes) it must at least be considered. So Harry says the family limped into Dyersburg, Tennessee.

But the Brethren's School Company land straddled the southern stretch of the Mobile & Ohio main line, which reached northward from the Gulf port at Mobile, Ala. to St. Louis, Missouri. At Cairo, Illinois the M&O connected with the Terra Haute & Indianapolis by mail and felt the loss deeply. "I remember how I walked to the gate and stood in the summer sunlight and wept," he recalled in plain words. His father's death affected him deeply, but the poignant picture which concludes I Was a Share-cropper, in which Harry visits the country road which has been cut heedlessly across his father's backwoods burial site, is pure invention. Darius Wesley Kroll is buried not under a rural West Tennessee road but outside Birmingham, Alabama in the East Lake Cemetery.[31] Harry's wife Nettie probably never met her father-in-law.

When the 1911–1912 school seasoned opened that fall Harry and Nettie discovered that they had overlooked the implication of marriage on their career arrangements and the couple ended up spending the school year apart. Harry taught in northern Clarke County at a newly built, 140-student school in Thomasville while Nettie occupied a position across the Alabama River in Wilcox County and stayed with her Aunt Lou. He would have made around $350 annually; she would have made almost as much, since Wilcox paid better on average but the pay rates were lower for females.[32] Other than occasional weekend and holiday trysts, they were reunited at the end of the school year and were thereafter more careful about accepting teaching contracts. They would have had a difficult field. According Railroad (Vandalia Line), which passed straight through Vincennes, Indiana. Under an arrangement with the School Company, the M&O was offering free transportation to Brethren moving to the Alabama settlements. Given the preeminence of rail over roads for interstate travel in the late nineteenth century it is positively curious why the Krolls did not take the train. Perhaps they did but Harry later decided that riding the train hardly met with the idea of a poor white sharecropper on the move and wrote it out of his story. Perhaps they had money enough only for passage part of the way. We don't know. But irrespective of how the family arrived in Tennessee, they did, and the facts of the family's landing there and the reasons for settling there are probably an irrecoverable detail.[9]

The family settled into Dyersburg, Tennessee, the seat of Dyer County and in 1895 a town of about ___. The town sits about fifteen miles inland from the Mississippi, almost exactly parallel with the bottom of the Missouri boot heel. It was a regional cotton depot, its fields and gins producing baled cotton by the trainload, destined for the Memphis cotton mart. By Nattie's account, Darius found work in the municipal electric plant and the family settled into a large house "of eight or nine rooms" about a mile from town. Her account presents a far different picture than the accommodation Harry later portrayed as a ramshackle sharecropper's cabin in I Was a Share-cropper. Around Dyersburg young Harry may have observed first hand the rock-hard existence of cotton sharecropping, but the family was probably not what Harry Kroll later described them. He may have worked a garden plot for family provender; Harry and the other children may have done fieldwork on a seasonal basis. If his youngest daughter's memory is accurate and Darius had worked for the city, he did not film and printed both for him and occasional tourists. Nattie recalled that her father specialized in rural and pastoral images and sold prints to a Chicago calendar company. His foray into photography may have been a necessity. By now his breath was coming more laboriously, he was weakening physically to the point that he could not work in the field, mill, or machine shop as he once had, and wracking coughs were more and more frequent. Something was wrong.

Despite land promoters' nearly miraculous claims regarding health and the vigor encouraged by the climate, Alabama's rural poor were plagued well into the twentieth century by a host of diseases, most which spread easily from poor health habits and nearly nonexistent sanitation, and were worsened by chronic malnutrition at virtually all ages. Typhoid blazed through neighborhoods, hookworm infections ranged as high as 60% of study populations, malaria and nutritional deficiency resulting in pellagra afflicted the state's population indiscriminately. All these diseases claimed victims, but none so effectively as did the grey deaths from tuberculosis. With nearly a 90% annual mortality rate, tuberculosis was a grim reaper. It was such an effective killer that in 1910 the president of Alabama's medical association called the disease the greatest public health menace in the state—even above endemic rural malnutrition. One statistic in the figures that year was Darius Kroll when in the late summer of 1910 he was diagnosed with tuberculosis. Charles was becoming established in Birmingham by this time and suggested that the family gather there. Darius, Caroline, Milly and Nattie sold what they owned in Citronelle and took the train to Birmingham. Darius moved to one of the city's sanitariums on their arrival but the disease had progressed savagely through his system. Darius Kroll died in June, 1911, a few weeks after arriving and barely ten months after his diagnosis. Harry learned of his father's death remain there long. The 1900 census lists his occupation not as a city worker but as "dairy man," and notes that his house was rented, not owned, so he was likely working as herdsman or milker for another landholder. In the typesetter's manuscript for Share-Cropper the publisher uniformly changed to George Washington "Wash" Kinsey the name of George W. Pierce, who may have been Darius Kroll's employer.[10]

Though the Krolls remained in town for nearly a decade, they avoided notice in virtually every public record: they neither bought nor sold land, were neither sued for non-payment of their debts nor resorted to the law to collect what was owed them. No one in the family was born, died, was declared incompetent, nor became a ward of the courts. They were never a witness or juror, were charged with no breach of law, evidently paid their debts, and owned no personal property of sufficient value to tax. They did no business that required assets in what was still largely a cash, barter, and private-credit society. The only Dyer County or Dyersburg city record in which a family member actually appears is in the county tax assessment record. Darius was annually assessed a $2 poll tax. Since the poll book columns were never marked "paid," he never voted in an election, either. By 1900, when he reached an age sufficient to be exempted from the poll tax, the entire family vanishes into complete legal anonymity.[11]

In his publishers' advertising and while teaching college courses years later, Harry was fond of claiming that he had never been to school. The claim must be taken at face value failed to address anything at all. As late as 1914 the state superintendent set the problem to roost where it belonged when he noted that "educational progress in Alabama at present is impeded much more by the need of progressive legislation and by constitutional inhibition than by a lagging public sentiment or a lack of effort on the part of those engaged in educational work."[29]

While Harry settled into the rigors of teaching through his first year in Dixons Mills he and Annette wrote to each other frequently, though no letter between them survives, and probably shared occasional visits as well. They married at the Heard's home in Grove Hill May 23, 1911 at the conclusion of the school term and on the same day that they had applied for a marriage license. That same day, "immediately following the ceremony," in fact, the couple returned to Dixons Mills and moved to a rented cabin three miles out of town, one of a loose clutch of houses known locally as the Etheridge settlement. Here they spent the summer living on their combined savings, learning about married life and each other. Within two weeks they experienced their first fight and Harry learned that his quiet bride also carried a flashing temper.[30]

After their sons struck out on their own, Darius and Caroline Kroll moved once again around 1910, from Fruitdale another ten or fifteen miles down the track and across the Mobile County line to the larger Brethren's settlement at Citronelle. Here, his daughter remembered, Darius also bought a camera and became a photographer; Caroline developed since no contemporary records exist to confirm or disprove it, but there are historical problems with Kroll's claim. It is known that his major piece of "autobiographical" writing is in fact fiction, but it is virtually the only comment on his early life and the closest thing to source material that exists. Both parents were literate, and Darius was said to read music as well. The couple demonstrated some commitment to education. Thirty years later, in one of the few more-likely accurate passages in his autobiographically informed I Was a Share-Cropper, Kroll discussed his introduction to literature in listening to his mother and older brother read from the story papers delivered weekly. At twelve Harry secured a subscription to Cosmopolitan, which was then a literary magazine, by saving 300 discarded tobacco-sack tags and gum wrappers.[12] The two girls made a daily rail trip to and from school after the family moved further south; Soddy became a respected architectural draughtsman and later a chemical engineer for Monsanto, which requires specialized training; and Harry's earliest publications reveal a fairly sophisticated familiarity with writing that his illustration does not exhibit.

Even if he was natively bright and a quick study, it is exceedingly unlikely that Harry Kroll would have developed into the sort of writer that he was strictly on his own. The Kralls were a family with some attainments, however limited, but had they not schooled their children, preferring them to work, it would not have raised many eyebrows. "Poor whites feared the loss of wages but also resented the way compulsory school attendance laws meddled with their children's lives," Wayne Flynt notes. Yet the family also probably realized that literacy was a means to social improvement. "I cannot remember a time when I effectively been a private system at the local level. For the first time in state history non-academic education was divided into elementary and secondary education. High schools (grades above seventh) were established with specific requirements for advancement. Even a year after passage of the act, one county superintendent, R. C. Heard of Clarke County, noted with some optimism that the levels of education and teacher preparation were improving. "It is becoming more difficult each year for inexperienced or third grade teachers to secure a school at all. The custom of securing a low grade certificate to teach summer schools as a stepping stone to something else will soon be a thing of the past," he noted. The act also provided the first state funding for school repair and construction, teacher salaries, and equipment and minor supplies, creating the first stable base for rural education in Alabama history. While the State Superintendent of Education later complained that some sections of the law effectively cancelled each other, it was at least a first major step toward creating a system of modern education. Though the county administrators and many school districts supported the change, there was still strong general opposition among the state's mill and mine owners, who based business upon a cheap-wage labor force that children represented. The legislature allowed a compulsory attendance bill to die without consideration as late as 1911. "How we are to become an educated people when only about three-fourths of the white people are in school and they average only four months in attendance is a difficult problem to solve," complained the State Superintendent. For all its faults, with the Code of 1907 Alabama was at least (and at last) moving toward modern education. Fixing oversights, like the act's failure to provide a legal structure for enacting local school taxation, were fixed in later years but imposing educational reform was very hard going. Many of the legislative fixes merely cancelled out working but unpopular parts of the initial comprehensive law or could not read," was a theme Harry Kroll frequently recalled when impressing someone with his rise-from-rural-poverty upbringing was less important. What broader literacy Harry gained resulted from natural talent as a reader, listening to the stories read from story papers on the porch in the evenings, whatever infrequent efforts Caroline (or more likely Darius, his father) made in educating the children at home, but it came hard won, primarily by self-driven study. Unless he was flatly lying about never attending school, literacy and education became a lodestone for Harry Kroll quite early in life.[13]

[12] I Was a Share-cropper, 84; "Good, Solid Work," Tennessean Magazine, 1949 May 1, p. 32.

Even during the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries it would have been common for a poor rural kid to have no education at all, particularly in the South, for several reasons. First, schools were pinned to specific locations but attracted children from rural families thinly dispersed over large areas. Grandparents' and great-grandparents' stories of walking for miles to school, at which later generations rolled their eyes, were not necessarily exaggerations since non-work transportation was severely limited or nonexistent. Second, from the time they were large enough to swing a hoe or pull a cotton boll, children's labor often represented a substantial labor asset for a poor family. Working the land or for wages at a factory was common until child labor laws were enforced in the 1920s.

In his upbringing Harry Kroll did, however, learn how to work and work hard. As he grew, work opportunities shifted and changed. For a few years as an early teen Harry was a delivery boy for a local meat market, something he worked into a memorable short story, "My Mother," which appeared in Atlantic and was adapted for inclusion in his "autobiography." During his mid teens he served as a message runner for the Dyersburg Western Union telegraph office for awhile. In his late teens Darius is said to have bought substantial, but included at least one important addition since leaving the year before—a typewriter. It was a second-hand, probably a little worse for the wear, but it allowed him to compose much more quickly than longhand. Though his handwriting was decent, the typewriter resulted in a cleaner, simply more professional page. Now back in Dixons Mills, with no wife and little to distract his time other than class work, he threw himself into first learning to type and then tailoring his mental capacity for direct keyboard composition. In a short while his native capacity for hard work, careful studies in English grammar and literature, and his passion for popular literature allowed him to set down stories at a fast clip on the typewriter, almost stream-of-consciousness and needing only fairly light corrections. In 1935 he recalled that he wore out this first old machine and two others on nine book-length works before he submitted his first long work to a publisher in 1914.[28]

[13] Flynt, Poor But Proud, 192.

Harry Kroll determined to become a teacher at almost precisely the same time that the country was beginning a push to improve education and professionalize schools. Alabama was not alone in enacting its first major school reform in the opening decade of the twentieth century. Eighty-one percent of Alabama's school-age children lived outside incorporated communities, which were the only non-legislative public entities with statutory authority to levy local taxes to fund schools. Thousands of local schools taught Alabama's rural school children and were essentially private schools, paid for by tuition of whoever could attend. After decades of outright neglect the legislature passed the educational Code of 1907 that year. This law was the first statewide effort to introduce structure and organization to had into the novelty of early motion pictures. He secured a projector and record player, and bought or rented a few short reels which could be secured through the mail from commercial film distributors. Charlie and Harry hit the road with a traveling movie show, hauling their equipment between school houses, working the Dyersburg area as theatre operators. Harry's capacity for hard work over long hours as a youth paid off in later life as he focused on producing typed manuscripts by the ream.

While they lived in Tennessee, Darius and Caroline continued to look southward and had not lost sight of the temperate climate and agricultural ease that Alabama promised. At some point late the summer of 1906 the couple recalled their itinerant sons from travels with the projector (who were happy to come, since they were losing movie business to a competitor with better equipment), moved out of their home in Dyersburg, and landed in Meridian, Mississippi. Seventy years later Natalie remembered making the trip by wagon, more likely it was by rail. By November the family settled into a rented forty-acre parcel in the tiny west Alabama sawmill town of Yellow Pine—with merely a hundred residents in 1918, it was little beyond a log processing and rail transportation stop. Yellow Pine, named for the company that processed the trees of the same name, was a lumber and turpentine town along the Mobile & Ohio Railroad line between Mobile and Meridian, Mississippi, virtually on the state line. A family photo dated November, 1906, shows them standing outside what is most probably their new residence. It is a painted (or whitewashed) two-storey affair with a decent front porch, suggesting that the family's income was at least sufficient enough to provide better-than-average accommodations. Why they were attracted to such a small community is not adequately explained by Nattie's memory of land-agent platitudes. It is much more likely that they were still drawn by the decade-old promotional promises of the between he and his classmates, intent on his goal Kroll did not recollect being self-conscious in class. The children, two-thirds his age and younger, called him "Mist' Harry" and treated him as one of their own.

When that school session ended in March or April of 1910 (in time for the planting season, of course) Kroll got word that teachers in Thomasville, about a dozen miles away in Clarke County, were organizing a six-weeks remedial session for students needing additional help. Thomasville also halved the distance between Harry and Annette, and he enrolled. At some point Harry returned to the orchard tent and discussed matters with Soddy. This discussion and their parting became a poignant vignette in his fictionalized autobiography.[27] Charles Blaine Kroll eventually moved to Birmingham and became an architectural draughtsman and later a chemist for Monsanto. The brothers rarely met in their adult lives only rarely after parting in the spring of 1910, but the older remained "Soddy" forever after.

The class in Thomasville not only brought him closer to Annette but allowed Kroll to make a final preparation for taking the Alabama Teachers' Examinations later that summer. Over three sweltering July days in the Clarke County courthouse Harry wrote for the examination and qualified for his entry-level credential, a third-grade Alabama teachers certificate. This permitted him to teach in the state's primary schools. Under pressure from the state, Clarke County was already raising the base requirements for teachers, so Kroll grabbed at a hunch and walked back to Dixons Mill, where he had ended his photographic career to pick up education a year earlier, and engaged to teach school there through the 1910–1911 school year. The personal effects he brought with him would not have been

For a century, Alabama's cheap land had attracted a huge population of immigrant poor (mostly Scots-Irish) who became the state's rural poor. These were not jobless families, but rather individuals who worked assets they did not own or who despite their work could not realize economic gain.[15] Alabama was a public lands state. Creek Indian lands in Alabama had been preempted by white European squatters before 1818 and was parceled out to legal settlers thereafter, even though most could not meet even the minimal federal payments of $1.25 per acre on the land they occupied. Undisturbed, the thin soil may have been idea for pine trees but was inadequate for virtually every other crop. Stripped of its trees and the fallen needles that carpeted the forest floor, the soil eroded almost willfully, leaving leering orange gashes in the landscape. Soil loss worsened as greater and greater areas were cleared. Most settler families quickly declined into subsistence agriculture, and a literature and themes, and probably flavoured at the time by his own budding romance, rarely shifted throughout his career, forming the core of Kroll's literary ventures for the rest of his life. Virtually every book of his, with the exception of his late-life non-fiction, revolves around romantic relationships, usually troubled ones and always passionate ones.

Later that winter (1909–10) Harry Kroll had had enough of self instruction and enrolled at the local school in Dixons Mill, Alabama to at least experience formal education. He was twenty-one. Kroll had mastered his schoolbook collection well enough to place with the seventh- through ninth-year classes in various subjects. That was something of an accomplishment in itself. Marengo County boasted 109 schools (sixty-three of them for white students) for its official population of 2,742 white and 10,060 coloured children between the ages six and twenty-one. About 80% of white children but barely a third of black were enrolled at school any time that year, even though white school sessions averaged less than six months of the year. Only nine schools in the county were organized to the point of dividing students into actual grades. The county claimed a high school at Thomaston but demurred over providing educational statistics to the state superintendent.[26] Along with the vast majority of students, Harry Kroll pursued what education he could get in an ungraded school, where students might—or might not—remain until they managed to work through the contents of the state textbooks and "graduate." Despite the blatant age and size disparity bare subsistence at that. By 1845 even the federal land commissioner was petitioning for easier payment schedules. Only with the widespread introduction of a readily marketable cash crop in the 1850s—cotton cultivation—was there a genuine bettering of economic conditions, until by 1860 roughly 80% of white cotton farmers owned the land they worked. But this, the only real period of reasonably general prosperity in Alabama's history, was coincident with the Civil War.[16] The one dramatically successful cash crop—cotton—brought prosperity to land owners, but only if they could also collect and hold onto (i.e., dominate) the labor needed to work the crop. Cotton became an economy of scale in which those of limited means could not meaningfully compete. Alabama's cotton culture had the "equal and opposite reaction" of Newton's first of motion: within a generation or two farm work stripped assets, evaporated personal economic power, and bound almost inextricably those whose primary asset was their manual labor, whether black (as slaves or as freedmen) or white.

While the Deep South is culturally portrayed as a two-class, racially divided society, it is much more accurate to remember that there were actually three separate, almost rigid, social classes: one was made up of those who controlled the vast percentage of wealth in the state (property, position, and the power that accompanied them)—white, exclusively; the second were blacks, descendants of slaves; but the third was the overwhelming majority of the state's white population: poor white families working land, mill machinery, and mines. Scholars have long pointed our how closely related were the social and economic issues the road as well. Using the Dixon orchard as a base, the brothers separated, working the territory in opposite directions with their cameras, but by this time Harry was losing interest in the business and wanted a way out. "This time I was working hard to get a stake so as to knock off and study and later go to school," he remembered. "It was the idea that Soddy and I had been talking around the fringes of for a long while. It recommended itself to us as the handiest avenue of escape from the blind alley of picture-making. It was the prospect of marriage that made me touch the plan with decision, to start putting it into action."[24] With a few weeks of hard selling Harry managed to save $60, part of which he promptly invested in a stack of state-approved school books. Back in the tent, having kept enough money to scrimp by temporarily while Soddy continued to "smoke pi'tures," Harry fell to studying. Through the late fall of 1909 Kroll held himself to a strict study regimen, eight to ten hours daily, an hour or so working the schoolbook problems on each subject, taking time every few weeks to walk the tracks twenty miles to visit Annette.

It was also during this period of feverish change and personal development that Harry was gripped with the urge to create and wrote his first novel. It was written out longhand on whatever paper he could find. "Twenty sheets of scratch paper to the chapter and twenty chapters to the book," he remembered years later. "I was . . . going forward . . . [with a] boy and girl and making their story, conventionally leaving them when they were married. I wrote because I loved it. Nothing could have been more remote from my mind than any hope that someday I would be a writer. I had never seen a writer."[25] This early conception of romantic boy-meets-girl fiction, born of his youthful experience with juvenile popular facing blacks and poor whites, but how radically rigid racial divisions, stoked by the wealthy, kept both groups from making economic progress.[17]

After the war, with land holdings subject to Reconstruction and the population to displacement and hunger, Alabama's economy turned to extractive industry of various sorts and basic processing: coal in the Appalachian hills together with iron mill production, but especially timbering in the virgin "pine belt" forests with turpentine production. Yellow Pine and a hundred other similar "towns" were cut into tiny clearings in Southern woods, a seemingly limitless forest that spread like a broad smile across the chin of the continent from east Texas to the Georgia coast. The post-Civil War world began cutting into the rich forests. Machinery began bringing to market the old-growth logs of virgin timber, straight as an arrow, three and four and five feet thick. Isolated turpentine camps exploited the smaller trees, tapping and cooking the pungent pine sap for the strong solvent that was a staple of industrial production. This was the setting William Faulkner wrote about in his classic short story "The Bear." By 1905 the silent long-leaf and yellow pine woods were already cut through with loggers' drag-trails, the stillness broken by the echoing knock of distant axes, the chain rattles of shuffling ox teams tugging at their loads, the sharp whine of saws licking through logs in rickety, open-sided shacks, and by the steamy chuff and shriek from dozens of small steam railroads. The woods were being cleared and a second generation was being invited in to turn the sandy grey and orange soils of south Alabama into the country's agricultural garden spot.

There were still huge tracts of open, unclaimed federal land in Alabama up until the early twentieth century, which made the state a focus of development schemes. James Neff [17] Flynt, Poor But Proud, passim.

Soddy followed the country railroad line north and east about twenty miles to the little crossroads settlement at Pine Hill. After her Fulton contract closed, Annette turned south toward home at Grove Hill. Following a short stay there, Annette's father sent her to board with his sister a few miles away at Gosport to complete two months of another teacher's school contract.

For awhile in the later winter or early spring of 1909 the two photographers worked fruitlessly around Pine Hill but eventually gave up, riding the dummyline Alabama & North West Railroad west into the south end of Marengo County. There the pair landed at Dixon's Mills, just over the Clarke County line, about a hundred miles almost due north of Mobile and roughly sixty from their parents' home. There they made arrangements to board with William A. Dixon for ten cents a meal, which included permission to pitch their canvass residence/business establishment in his orchard. There the census enumerator located them a year later in mid April, 1910, and enrolled them as boarders with Dixon and his wife Dollie, their son Elmore, and Dixon's 82-year-old mother, Tilda Dixon.[23] Though Harry did not know it, Dixon's Mills, Alabama would be an on-again, off-again home for nearly another more decade.

When they had struck out on their enterprise a year or so earlier, Harry had cut a deal with Soddy that had given him a large part of a day to loaf or chase local girls wherever they camped. Soddy did the photographic leg work, travelling the road making contacts and taking the portraits, while Harry remained in camp to do darkroom developing and printing, the housekeeping, and lay on meals. No more. Meeting Annette and making their tenuous engagement seem to have galvanized Harry ambitions. He grabbed a camera and set out on was a major figure in a group which established two towns about sixty miles north of Mobile in the yellow pine forest: Fruitdale and Citronelle. His Southern Almanac touted the suitability of the climate and land, once cleared, for rotated-crop produce farming. It was filled with testimonials, photos, and suggestions of the comparative ease with which wealth could be won. His work was identical to scores of similar promotional items that described virtually the entire continent in strikingly similar terms. Such promotional stuff was a magnetic attraction to the landless, and therefore to the anxious scions of an intensely agrarian but landlocked culture such as the German Baptists from the Midwest. What promoters like Neff and settlers like the Krolls overlooked or ignored were the wide variations in the state's quilt of economic prosperity. Despite the promises, the sandy soil, ideal for native pines, was not rich enough to support either most root crops nor the grass needed for intensive grazing. The produce familiar to families who were used to rich, black-loam Midwestern prairies simply did not produce the same way in Alabama, despite the more temperate climate.

[23] Thirteenth U. S. Census (1910), Marengo County, Alabama, precinct 11.

For their part, the German Baptists came late to the region. Yellow Pine, Alabama was a wye junction where the Washington & Choctaw Railway, initially a ten-mile dummyline spur built by the timber company, ran north from the M&O, first to dead-end in a town ignominiously named Fail, and a few years later north again to connect with the Alabama, Tennessee & Northern Railroad at Bolinger. One the Kroll family arrived, Nattie said Soddy and Harry landed jobs in a local mill—despite Harry's obvious physical handicap—most probably the E. W. Gates Lumber Company. Their father, she remembered, worked in the railroad station until the someone realized that he had experience as a machinist and induced him to work in a repair shop. By then the family's two girls were of brought about by his acquaintance and budding romance in a muddy south Alabama townlet, became perhaps the watershed moment in his existence.

Harry quickly dropped his attentions to other young women and he and Miss Heard kept each other's company through the spring. Within a few weeks the teacher began meeting him at church, and then walking there and back with the picture maker, much to the disapproval of the school board. "It was kind of an unwritten law in those parts that no teacher was human enough to have a boy friend," Kroll later noted. "We drifted toward an understanding in the spontaneous way of those who neglect the formalism of human affairs, and want love quite terribly." Though it sounds terribly like a Freudian case history, their mutual longing for stability probably grew out of each of them having a family that remained together but exacted high emotional costs of its members. Alcoholism seems to have defined Nettie's family and shaped her future by the need to shape her ambitions to its stresses; the demanding emotional domination Harry's mother exhibited was a caricature of normal affection between family members. These challenges, coupled to poverty but fueled by moderate ambition, drew the two emotionally hungry young people together.

Eventually the photographers had worked through Alameda/Fulton thoroughly. Before the Kroll boys left the area, Harry visited his girl and bumbled out an informal proposal to Miss Heard. "'Some of these times, well—er—'. And she understood and nodded and that was it. Nothing like a formal declaration of love," he confessed decades later to their children, "indeed I wonder if I knew what love was—or did she. But it was an understanding. So we were engaged to marry at some indefinite time in the future not stated, or even discussed."[22] Their troth plighted, the couple parted a few days later. Harry and school age and the family moved down the tracks a few miles to Fruitdale. The family remained in Fruitdale while Charles and Harry worked at various occupations as opportunity permitted. He may have loved or hated the work, but familiarity with logging camps, railroads, and field work later allowed him to draw upon his work experience for realistic story settings.[18]

Out in the World

By 1908 Harry was 19 and had had enough of the family's redneck existence.[19] Stoking his discontent with youthful ambition, he began aspiring to something more suited to Alabama) during the 1906–1907 school year. Harry, her husband, recalled to a son after her death that "she found a greater fulfillment in going to school at Livingston than maybe anything she ever did." She was bitterly disappointed when her father's recurrent problem with alcohol and the family's poverty required her to quit school and return home to help provide for them. Withdrawal from school at Livingston ended her formal education and prevented her earning a college degree.[21] Harry, however, remembered her as an excellent schoolteacher who could read and write Latin fluently.

Kroll's previous romances had been with young women of similar social and economic background. Annette and her family, however, were "reading people." When spinning the story of his upbringing to later audiences, Harry claimed that he had married the local school teacher, who agreed to his proposal only on the condition that he get an education. It may be a romantic story but is almost certainly a fabrication. It is more likely that the shy, vaguely pretty school teacher was a lodestar whose attention in return finally gave direction and drive to his private aspirations. Nettie's position as a teacher represented a type of social authority to which Harry, with his background as a redneck dirt farmer and laborer, had glimpsed only occasionally, and then only from the outside and below. Certainly courting Nettie Heard prompted him toward making a social climb toward formal literacy, writing, and the cultural refinement that they implied. This change of perspective, his physical disability and temperament. Some time that year he and older brother Charles ordered a camera outfit from the Sears & Roebuck catalogue and decided to set up a "a little studio" twenty miles south across the Mobile County line in the larger town of Citronelle, Alabama. Exactly what the arrangements were and how long Charles and Harry lasted as storefront businessmen isn't known, but evidently the trade wasn't good enough to stay fixed in one place. At some point in 1908 or early 1909 the pair closed the door in town and determined to take to the road as itinerant photographers. Until 1910 the two brothers tramped about the rural southwest corner of Alabama with their cameras, a canvas tent, and portable darkroom laboratory. Photography at this professional level was strictly a daylight business, which left a nineteen-year-old Harry evenings beside campfires and during slack times to read and chase whatever unattached young women were in the neighbourhood. The quickest, easiest transportation was by rail. The pair drifted down the M&O tracks from Citronelle toward Mobile, then turned north again following closely the line of the old Alabama Great Southern, which had become the Southern Railway a decade earlier. Better than fifty years later, Soddy reminisced to his younger brother: "I have cherished recollections of our piney wood days when we struck out together in the little studio at Citronelle, to hit the road with stopping off stands at Homer Turner's sawmill; near Oak Grove; Mount Vernon [barely a dozen miles due east of Citronelle]; Carson Station across the Tombigbee from Jackson; . . . . We were very close in the times of our early venture."

In December, 1909 the pair landed in the neighborhood of Fulton, Alabama, dominated by the large Scotch Lumber Company sawmill, and planted themselves to work the territory in an older, less successful settlement named Alameda. On their first night in "town" Charles and Harry boarded with a school trustee named Danzey whose family also boarded the local schoolteacher, a Miss Annette Heard. A day or two later the photographers set up their tent in an open space between the railroad tracks and some abandoned shacks, and went into business. Their introduction to the school system paid off. Harry shot a negative of the local school; Mizz Annette ordered a dozen prints from the photographers. He and Soddy ate well for a week on that $3.50 commission.

Coming as they did just before Christmas, Charles and Harry were drawn into the local holiday celebration. The schoolteacher had a Christmas tree in her school and thoughtfully hung an orange on it for each of the tramp photographers. "To show the perfidy of the young male animal in his early courting stages," wrote Harry years later, "I was also walking evenings with a . . . pineywoods girl named Cynthia Kelly, and she was sitting with me at that tree . . . ." Harry gave her half of the orange; Nettie occasionally reminded her husband of that in later years.

Hattie Annette Heard was the daughter of Robert C. Heard of Grove Hill, Alabama, the Clarke County seat a few miles south of Fulton. R. C. Heard served as Superintended of Education in Clarke County between 1896 and 1909, but in the social order he was insufficiently notable to be featured with other former county officials in the county history a few years later.[20] The Heards were a family of school teachers, well-educated people by rural Alabama standards, but the family did not possess the land holdings and therefore the social standing to qualify as gentry. Annette had grown up above the rural dirt-poor poverty that Harry had, but not far above it. Following the family business, she had aspired to a teaching career and attended Alabama Normal College in Livingston (now the University of West

For some unknown reason after funeral arrangements for Mary had been made, plans were not carried through, her dau. Eliz Metzger requested Michael Montgomery + John Billheimer visit her + a funeral was preached for Mary + Joseph at the same time, Sunday, May 22, 1892. They had only lived there a short time + not acquainted with the brethren near them.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FRIDAY FOR J.W. MUSSELMAN
Funeral Services were conducted Friday afternoon, May 2, from the Woods Chapel for Jacob W. Musselman of Center, who died Wednesday April 30, in the Monte Vista community hospital after an illness of several months.
The Rev. Edwin C. Knowles, pastor of the First Christian Church, officiated at the service and burial took place in the Monte Vista Cemetery. Music was furnished by Mrs. Edwin Knowles, vocalist, and Mrs.… . Byron Myers, pianist. Pallbearers included J.C. Kincannon, Don Burd, Lester Mountfort, H.L. Popejoy, Harry Pryor of Saguache and Ross Pryor of Saguache.
Mr. Musselman was born April 3, 1866 in Ozawkie, Kansas. From his native state, he moved to the San Luis Valley in January 1909 and homesteaded sixteen miles north of Center where he had made his home since.

He was one of five children, all deceased and was a bachelor. His survivors include Mrs. Carl Henderson of Monte Vista, grandniece and Howard Singles of Pueblo, grandnephew and Harvey Musselman of Eads, nephew.

Neher, and with him and said wards has occupied said lands devoting the proceeds to the maintenance of their family. She says that said lands are comparatively unproductive for said wards and it would be to their interests to sell the same or a portion thereof with a view to their support and education, and a better investment elsewhere. MRS. LEAH N. STREET

Mrs. Leah N. Street, 73, wife of Albert Street, died at her home in Akron at 1:30 p. m. Monday. She had been ill six weeks and bedfast part of the time but the immediate cause of death was a heart attack.

Born in Cass county, Jan. 16, 1874, she was the daughter of Daniel T. and Magdalene Cripe. She was married in Marion, Dec. 25, 1915, to Mr. Street, who survives.

The Streets moved to Akron from Elkhart 18 years ago. Mrs. Street was a member of the Akron Methodist church.

Surviving besides the husband are two sisters, Mrs. Martha Nixon, Akron; and Mrs. Susie France, McFarland, Cal.; a brother, Moses Cripe, Mishawaka; two nephews and one niece.

Funeral services will be held at the Akron Methodist church at 2 p. m. Thursday with the Rev. R. A. Fenstermacher and Rev. D. L. Slaybaugh officiating. Burial will be in I.O.O.F. cemetery there.

The body will remain at the Moyer-Haupert funeral home in Akron where friends may call until noon Thursday when it will be taken to the church to lie in state until time for the services.

C415-73

Mrs. C. E. Nixon

Mrs. Martha E. Nixon, 95, 505 E. Third St., North Manchester, ill one day, died at 5 a.m. Sunday in the Wabash County Hospital.

The decedent was born near Delphi, June 17, 1867, the daughter of Daniel and Mary (Cripe) Cripe. She was married in 1891 to Charlie E. Nixon, who died March 29, 1939.

Mrs. Nixon was a lifetime resident of the North Manchester community and a member of the First Brethren Church.

A son, Charles E. Nixon, North Manchester, survives. One brother and three sisters preceded her in death.

1-28-63

Funeral services will be at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Bender Funeral Home, North Manchester, with the Rev. Woodrow Immel officiating. Burial will be in the Pleasant Hill Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home.

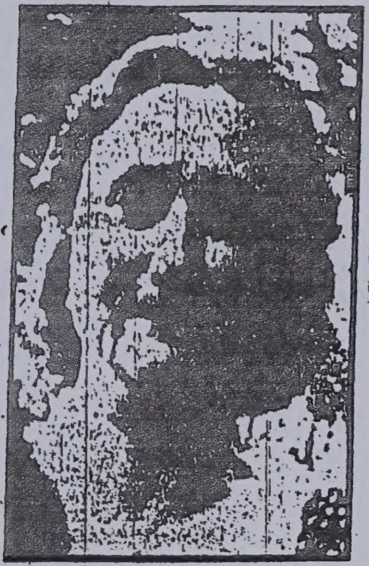
CRASH VICTIM.



MRS. MOSES S. CRIPE.

Funeral services for Mrs. Moses S. Cripe, aged 67, of 623 South Union street, who was killed shortly before 8 p. m. Monday in an automobile accident, will take place at 2:30 p. m. Thursday in Bubb chapel. Rev. S. O. Redacre, of Sebring, O., formerly of this city, will officiate and burial will be in Fairview cemetery. Members of the Sunshine club will be pallbearers. Other members of the Sunshine club will go to the chapel at 2:15 p. m. and will attend services in a body.

Mrs. Cripe was fatally injured when the car in which she was riding with Mr. Cripe was struck as it turned into the driveway of the Merle E. Fall farm, rural route No. 6, South Bend. The Cripe car skidded on the slippery pavement when Mr. Cripe applied the brakes to turn into the driveway and the car sidewiped a car driven by Frank S. Galbraith, of Bremen, Ind. Mr. Cripe and the occupants of the Galbraith car were not seriously injured.

MRS. CRIPE, 67, DIES IN CRASH AT DRIVEWAY

Auto of Husband Hit After Skidding on Pavement.

A 67-year-old Mishawaka woman, Mrs. Amanda Cripe, 623 South Union street, who left for a nearby farm early today to buy milk for herself and several neighbors, was killed shortly before 8 o'clock when the car in which she was riding was struck as it turned into the driveway of the Merl E. Fall farm, rural route No. 6, box No. 122A. Her husband, Moses S. Cripe, 70, was driving the car, which was traveling south on Miami road. He works for the Mishawaka city water and electric plant.

The other car involved in the crash was being driven north on Miami road by Frank S. Galbraith, 38, of Bremen, Ind., reportedly an employe of the Studebaker corporation. Also in his car were his two sons, Fred, 12, and Evan, eight. The three were treated at Epworth hospital for minor cuts and shock. The boys were released and Mr. Galbraith is reported to be in good condition.

According to the sheriff's report, Mr. Cripe's car skidded on the slippery pavement when he applied the brakes to turn into the farm driveway on the east side of the road. His car is reported to have been sideswiped on the right side by the left side of the oncoming Galbraith vehicle.

The only local survivor of the victum, in addition to her husband, who suffered minor shock in the crash, is a grandson, Wadsworth Ewers, of 310 East Edgar street, Mishawaka.

Mrs. Cripe was born in Wabash county, Indiana, July 30, 1874, and went to Mishawaka in 1919 from South Bend. She was married in 1893 in Laketon, Ind., to Mr. Cripe. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Reid, of Baker, La.; five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Ellen Long, of Wabash, Ind., and Mrs. Carrie Day, of Roann, Ind., and two brothers, George Clark, of North Manchester, Ind., and Tolliver Clark, of Wabash county.

Mrs. Cripe was a member of the First Christian church of Mishawaka and of the Sunshine Social club.

Shortly after the crash a three and one-half ton dairy truck approaching the wreckage from the north skidded on the slippery pavement and overturned into a ditch on the east side of the road. The driver was uninjured. The sheriff's emergency station wagon also had difficulty with the slick road, hooking a bumper of one of the wrecked cars as it slid to a halt.

130.8.4.2.3

Death of John J. Cripe.

J. J. Cripe died at his home in Pyrmont last Wednesday morning at the age of sixty-one. Mr. Cripe was a native of Carroll county and his parents were among the Carroll county pioneers, having been among the first settlers in Clay township. They came from Dayton, Ohio.

Mr. Cripe was but twelve years of age when his father died, the oldest of a family of five, and he naturally took the lead in the struggle against poverty. But he won. He was married when eighteen to Mary Wagoner and then took charge of the home farm which he managed for about fifteen years. He was progressive and inclined to deal with affairs on a broad scale. His farm came to be one of the best in the county and was always well stocked, and in partnership with some of his most enterprising neighbors, he frequently drove cattle to White county for grazing. For several years he operated a threshing machine, starting with the old fashioned horse power out-fit. His first engine required two big ox teams to haul it over the country. At the time of his death he had at his home an interesting photograph illustrating the first steam threshing engine introduced in the county by Dunkle and Kilgore.

In the spring of 1887 he purchased the old flouring mill at Pyrmont to which he added a shingle and planing mill. This venture was undertaken at an unfortunate time. It came just at the transition period in the milling business of the country, leaving idle or dismantled hundreds and hundreds of smaller mills scattered along the streams of nearly every state. It left Mr. Cripe financially a bankrupt. But he said then that he would pay every dollar of his indebtedness and never availed himself of the provisions of law under which he might have divided his property among creditors to forever cancel his obligations. That he subsequently paid the principal and interest on every obligation is known by his family and creditors.

Mr. Cripe went to school but three months when he was a boy, but in spite of obstacles he acquired a fair education, traveled extensively and was a close student of current events. His home contained such art and music as his means would allow.

Mr. Cripe was a life long republican and voted for every republican candidate for President since he became a voter. He was by nature interested in matters of religion. His theology was practical. When he was but seventeen he united with the Dunkard church, of which his parents were life long members. When the church was divided about twenty years ago he adhered to the conservative branch and was an enthusiastic believer in the aggressive missionary and educational attitude which this branch of the church assumed. But he was extremely tolerant and conceded to every one the liberty of thought which he claimed for herself. For many years he was a trustee of his church at Pyrmont. And no citizen of the community enjoyed the public confidence in a greater degree than John J. Cripe.

He leaves a widow and eight children, and his mother, now eighty-eight years of age, survives him. One of the finest traits of his character was displayed in the care he gave to his mother, who in her later years was provided with a cozy cottage adjacent to his own home where he gave her every attention which her comfort demanded.

Early-day Resident of Valley Died Recently In Medford, Oregon

Relatives here this week informed us of the death at his home in Medford, Ore., of David Cripe, 96 years old, and a former resident of Saratoga and the Platte valley. Mr. Cripe passed away November 17, death being caused by advanced age and attending ailments. Word came from his daughter, Mrs. Ben Swanson of Spring creek, who has been at her father's home in Oregon since November 8.

Mr. Cripe resided in this section for many years. He was born in Carroll county, Indiana, and first came to the Platte valley in 1898 or 1899. He left this section, moving to Medford, in 1922, and had made his home there since.

He is survived by three sons, Noah Cripe of Saratoga; John Cripe of Allyn, Wash.; Owen Cripe of Marysville, Calif.; three daughters, Mrs. Sadie Swanson of Saratoga; Mrs. Emma Snoke of Cerro Gordo, Ill.; Mrs. Estie Roth, of Medford, Ore.; and also leaves 20 grandchildren and 26 great grandchildren.

Harlow D. Snoke, 94, of Cerro Gordo died 4:15 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 15, 1991, in St. Mary's Hospital, Decatur.

Funeral services were held 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 18, in the Brethren Church of Cerro Gordo with Pastor Dean Benton officiating. Burial was in Cerro Gordo Cemetery with graveside military rites by Cerro Gordo American Legion Post 117.

Brintlinger's Cerro Gordo Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Snoke was born Jan. 19, 1897, in Oakley Township, son of George and Emma Cripe Snoke. He married Myrtle Peck in 1919 in Oakley Township. She died in 1965. He married Mary M. Cole in 1967 in Cerro Gordo. She survives.

Also surviving are three sons, Harlow "Junior" Snoke of Kearney, Mo., Charles Lee Snoke of Hammond and Albert R. Snoke of Cerro Gordo; one daughter, Eileen Taylor of Hammond; three step-sons, Robert Cole of Highland Beach, Fla., "Bud" Blickenstaff of Cerro Gordo and David Blickenstaff of Springfield; two step-daughters, Patricia Waltz of Hampton, Va. and Judith Tuvell of Decatur; 12 grandchildren; 19 step-grandchildren; several great-grandchildren; two sisters, Rose Davis and Mary Wrighthouse, both of Cerro Gordo.

Mr. Snoke was a rural mail carrier and postmaster in Cerro Gordo for 30 years. He was a World War I veteran serving in the U.S. Army; a member of the Brethren Church of Cerro Gordo; and a 50 year member of the Oddfellows Lodge. He was a member of the Cerro Gordo American Legion Post 117, Past County Commander and Past Cerro Gordo Post Commander.

Memorials may be made to the Cerro Gordo Community Ambulance Service; the Brethren Church of Cerro Gordo; or the Cerro Gordo Church of the Brethren.

Iron Creek Group.

Hon. George Ferris, John D. C. Kruger and Luke and Robert Wheeler have purchased from L. D. Pierson, a number of copper claims, 12 in all, known as the Iron Creek Group and situated on a small tributary (by that name) of Cow creek. The vein in these claims is over six feet wide and can be traced for over two miles. Assays from average samples gives from 12 per cent to 32 per cent copper and $8 in gold.

Mr. Pierson, from whom these claims were bought, is considered one of the best prospectors in this state, and this one of the richest and most important groups of mines yet found in that wonderfully rich country known as Battle Lake. Luke Wheeler is the man who sold the claims now owned by the Great Lakes Company, up near the Kurtz-Chatterton mine, and the property disposed of by him for $4,000 only one year ago, could not to-day be purchased for $100,000.

Some Good Copper Prospects.

J. M. Delaney, who recently made a trip to the Snake River and Battle Mountain country, returned last Thursday. He has two good copper prospects at Battle mountain, one of which is down 37 feet and will run 28 per cent copper. The other claim is a projection of the same lead and has made a good showing. He

Hon. F. Chatterton, Secretary of State, James M. Rumsey, Cashier of the First National Bank of Rawlins and R. A. Smiley, owners of the Hot Springs Hotel property, have all been here this week looking over the situation. Mr. Weaver, who formerly owned one fourth of the property, has disposed of his share to his partners, the above named gentlemen.

The present owners have determined on radical improvements in the property, one of which is a two story bath house, 20x32 feet, which will be built on the north side of the hotel. This building will contain bath rooms on both floors, the upper story for ladies and the lower for gentlemen. In each story there will be a large waiting room, handsomely furnished, toilet rooms and every other convenience and comfort possible for the pleasure and benefit of the patrons of the place.

The upper story will be connected with the hotel by means of a covered passage way. The hotel and bath house will be supplied with a system of sewerage and hot and cold baths. The tubs in the bath rooms will be of slate and made to order for the proprie-

THE PASS CREEK DRIVE.

Consisting of About 100,000 Ties, Nearly to the River. No Trouble About Dams or Headgates.

J. H. Mullison came in Monday from Pass creek where he has been superintending the Teller tie drive of about 100,000 ties. The ties are nearly to the river and the drive will be finished so far as the creek is concerned in a few days.

Mr. Mullison was asked about the dams and headgates in the creek and said:—

"There isn't a dam in Pass creek which can be called a dam, and never was. We were careful about the headgates to the ditches and sent men along ahead to place ties across them in such a manner that they were not harmed in the slightest. The bridges across Pass creek were very low and it was necessary to prop them up to let the ties under which interrupted the crossing as long as the ties were passing which was about a day in most cases. The bridges were then let down and everything was fixed securely. The ranchmen on the creek are perfecty satisfied and they will tell you that if they had not seen the drive pass they would not have known, so far as the ties damaged their ditches and headgates, that there had been a drive."

Mr. Delaney expects to return to that country the last of this week or the first of the next.

More Valuable Copper Claims.

William Rudolph brings word of the finding in Colorado, just over the state line and but a short distance from the Rudolph Group, of a very valuable copper claim owned by Patrick Burns and Perry Gester. They are down 28 feet and the vein is over 5 feet in width. An avarage sample from this claim went 21 per cent copper.

Not very far from Pearl, Oscar Elms has a claim on which he has sunk 85 feet. The vein is over 5 feet in width and an average assay from it gives from 17 per cent to 36 per cent copper.

New Copper Company.

Articles of incorporation of the Coldwater Copper Mining company were filed yesterday in the office of the secretary of state to operate a mining business at the town of Grand Encampment in Carbon county. What About the 4th of July?

If Saratoga intends to celebrate the 4th of July this year it is time to do something in that direction. There is about $40 left in the treasury from last year's celebration and it would be an easy matter to raise enough more to make a first class celebration. There was an attempt made to call a meeting last Saturday evening but owing to a lack of interest on the part of the people it was given up. It is getting late and a month is none to long a time to get everything in readiness.

North Fork Road.

Horace G. Nichols of Encampment came in Sunday and went on to Rawlins Monday. He is going to see if the county commissioners will assist the people of Grand Encampment to build a road up the Nort Fork of the Encampment river. He estimates that it will cost about $1500 to build the road, and thinks the people of that country can get half the money if the county will furnish the

There will be a water tank in the top of the bath house which will hold 1,160 gallons of water, supplying shower baths and as a safeguard against fire. A gasoline engine will pump the baths and supply the tank, bath house and hotel with water, fresh and cool from the river which flows by the hotel door.

The hotel is handsomely re-furnished and, when the bath house is finished and furnished—which will be by July 15th—Manager Baker will have a hostlery second to none in the state. Both the owners of the hotel and the people of Saratoga are to be congratulated on this improvement which will soon place this property in first class shape.

C. B. Tilton Dead.

C. B. Tilton, who resided in South Deerfield, Mass., who was quite well known here, and father of W. E. Tilton of Bennett, Wyo., died at his home in Massachusetts on the 17th of May from blood poisoning aged 72 years and 8 months He was ill but nine days. Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tilton, left here on the 15th for his bedside, but were 24 hours too late to see him alive. The remains were interred in South Deerfield, a very large assembly being present at the funeral ceremonies. Seven weeks before deceased had attended the funeral of his eldest daughter, Helen, in the same church.

Mr. Tilton left a will which contained, besides provisions for his wife and son W. E. Tilton, bequests to several religious institutions, one being for a school for colored children in North Carolina.

Mr. Tilton was a man of upright character, just and sincere, and his memory will linger long with every one who knew him. The sympathy of this community is extended to the surviving relatives.

The Auction Sale.

The sale Saturday of the household and ranch articles belonging to the estate of W. B. Cowan, deceased, was fairly well attended. Royer-Cripe.

Charles Royer and Miss Estie Cripe were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Peryam on Encampment Sunday at 12 o'clock, Mr. Peryam, Justice of the Peace officiating.

Mr. Royer is a well known young man of this country having been here since 1891. He is at present running a butcher shop at Encampment in partnership with a Mr. Norwich.

The bride is the daughter of John Cripe who resides on South Spring creek and a lady who is much esteemed by her many friends.

The wedding was a very quiet one, only a few of the relatives of the bride being present.

Mr. and Mrs. Royer will start in housekeeping at Encampment, and have the best wishes of their many friends, among whom the SUN wishes to be included.

TEN WOLF PUPS.

Captured by D. C. Bacon in a Den on Jelm Mountain.

D. C. Bacon yesterday brought in the skins to ten wolf pups which he took with his own hands from a den in Jelm mountain. Mr. Bacon suspected the existence of this litter and camped in the vicinity for three days for the express purpose of capturing them. His vigil was rewarded, and he finally found the brood, eleven in all, but succeeded in capturing only ten of them.

These animals are very numerous all over the country and it seems strange that so few people are engaged in hunting them. Large bounties are offered and good wages could be made by any person who had the least idea of the haunts and habits of the beasts.—Laramie Republican.

More Valuable Copper Claims.

William Rudolph brings word of the finding in Colorado, just over the state line and but a short distance from the Rudolph Group, of a very valuable copper claim owned by Patrick Burns and Perry Gester. They are down 28 feet and the vein is over 5 feet in width. An avarage sample from this claim went 21 per cent copper.

Not very far from Pearl, Oscar Elms has a claim on which he has sunk 85 feet. The vein is over 5 feet in width and an average assay from it gives from 17 per cent to 36 per cent copper.

New Copper Company.

Articles of incorporation of the Coldwater Copper Mining company were filed yesterday in the office of the secretary of state to operate a mining business at the town of Grand Encampment in Carbon county. The new concern organizes with a capital stock of $500,000, with the following gentleman as incorporators: Zell T. Baldwin, H. A. Bates, G. T. Keene E. S. Drury and Wm. J. Wernli. —Cheyenne Leader.

What About the 4th of July?

If Saratoga intends to celebrate the 4th of July this year it is time to do something in that di-tors. There will be a water tank in the top of the bath house which will hold 1,160 gallons of water, supplying shower baths and as a safeguard against fire. A gasoline engine will pump the baths and supply the tank, bath house and hotel with water, fresh and cool from the river which flows by the hotel door.

The hotel is handsomely re-furnished and, when the bath house is finished and furnished—which will be by July 15th—Manager Baker will have a hostlery second to none in the state. Both the owners of the hotel and the people of Saratoga are to be congratulated on this improvement which will soon place this property in first class shape.

C. B. Tilton Dead.

C. B. Tilton, who resided in South Deerfield, Mass., who was quite well known here, and father of W. E. Tilton of Bennett, Wyo., died at his home in Massachusetts on the 17th of May from blood poisoning aged 72 years and 8 months He was ill but nine days. Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tilton, left here on the 15th for his bedside, but were 24 hours too late to see him alive. The remains were interred in South Deerfield, a very large assembly being present at the funeral ceremonies. Seven weeks before deceased had attended the funeral of his eldest daughter, Helen, in the same church.

Mr. Tilton left a will which contained, besides provisions for his wife and son W. E. Tilton, bequests to several religious institutions, one being for a school for Royer-Cripe.

Charles Royer and Miss Estie Cripe were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Peryam on Encampment Sunday at 12 o'clock, Mr. Peryam, Justice of the Peace officiating.

Mr. Royer is a well known young man of this country having been here since 1891. He is at present running a butcher shop at Encampment in partnership with a Mr. Norwich.

The bride is the daughter of John Cripe who resides on South Spring creek and a lady who is much esteemed by her many friends.

The wedding was a very quiet one, only a few of the relatives of the bride being present.

Mr. and Mrs. Royer will start in housekeeping at Encampment, and have the best wishes of their many friends, among whom the SUN wishes to be included.

TEN WOLF PUPS.

Captured by D. C. Bacon in a Den on Jelm Mountain.

D. C. Bacon yesterday brought in the skins to ten wolf pups which he took with his own hands from a den in Jelm mountain. Mr. Bacon suspected the existence of this litter and camped in the vicinity for three days for the express purpose of capturing them. His vigil was rewarded, and he finally found the brood, eleven in all, but succeeded in capturing only ten of them.

These animals are very numerous all over the country and it seems strange that so few people it could be gotten under control had burned all the buildings. The machinery was fortunately not damaged very much and it is thought can be fixed up in a short time so that work can be resumed. There was about 40,000 feet of lumber and about 60,000 feet of logs which was not harmed at all

THE HERCULES.

A Well Named Copper Mine in the Outskirts of the City of Battle Lake That will Soon Astonish the World.

Postmaster J. M. Thomas Jr., and W. J. Russell came down from Battle Lake Sunday and went on out to Rawlins. Mr. Thomas said:

"You can rest assured that the owners of the Hercules are feeling finely over the prospects in that mine now. We are down 200 feet in the shaft, at which level we ran a drift north to cut the contact. Within 14 feet distance from the shaft we cut one vein of 5 feet, one of 6 inches, one of 1 foot and one of 2 feet, all running from 20 to 25 per cent. copper, and all dipping in the same direction. The drift is now in 160 feet and as soon as the diorite dyke is cut on the north of the contact, we intend to put in machinery that will work the mine at a depth of 800 to 1000 feet.

"The present indications are that when our shaft reaches a depth of 50 feet more that all the veins in the dyke will have come together and that we will have a large vein of high grade sulphide ore. It is the opinion of mining experts who have examined the mine that we should have the largest copper proposition in the entire district. The dyke is 300 feet wide and it is believed that the whole body will run from 8 to 10 per cent. copper

"We are now running three shifts and pushing the work as fast as men and steel can do it.

Station at Walcott.

From relialbe sources The Sun learns that it is the intention of the Union Pacific to establish a passenger and freight depot at Walcott in the near future. From the same source it is learned that in all probability there will also be built by the company, or under its sanction and supervision, an eating and lodging house for the accommodation of passengers and patrons of the road.

When the building of the lodging house becomes an assured fact it is the intention of Rendle Bros., of Rawlins to put a stage line on from Walcott to Saratoga. The service will be of the very best and the run will be made from Walcott to Saratoga in 3½ hours. Stages will meet every train, i. e., will not only be there to take passengers who arrive, but will land passengers there in time to take each train out. Rendle Bros. are talking also of sending some of their freight teams up into the valley to help move the immense quantity of freight now coming into the country.

The Bell Telephone Line.

The force of workmen in charge of the construction of the Bell Telephone company's line from Fort Steele to this place, are now camped on Lake creek at the Brauer ranch. The line is being rapidly built and will reach Saratoga in about one week. The wire is also being strung as the line is constructed and when the line is completed to this place an instrument will be put on and an office opened for business. The wire is strung double, thus making a metallic circuit, which is claimed to be far preferable to using the earth as a part of the circuit.

Arrangements have been made for room to string three sets of wires on the present poles. The work is of the most durable character and it is very evident that the Bell Telephone company has the most unbounded faith in the future of this country.

J. W. Hugus Weds Again.

J. W. Hugus, of J. W. Hugus & Co., well known in this country where he lived so many years and who has for many years been a resident of Pasadena, Cal., was married to Blanche J. Bolt of that place on the afternoon of Wednesday, April 25th. They will [illegible] the latter part of May for a

THE HOT SPRINGS HOTEL.

The New Manager, Mr Baker, and His Wife, Now in Charge of That Place—Much Improvement Contemplated.

E. W. Baker and wife, the new host and hostess of the Hot Springs Hotel, arrived here Monday and have taken charge of that institution. Mr. and Mrs. Baker have had a great deal of experience in that line and will give entire satisfaction. Courteous and considerate to everyone, they will soon place that institution on its feet.

The hotel is to be entirely refurnishded from top to bottom, the furniture for which is now at Walcott and will be here in a very short time.

The dining room will be in charge of Mrs. L. Geis who will close up her restaurant and boarding house for the present. Mrs. Geis has the reputation of furnishing a first class table and the dining room will be in competent hands.

New bath tubs, six in number, and each weighing 1200 pounds, have been ordered from Chicago and will be put in position very soon. These tubs, which are of highly polished slate, are to take the place of the new ones of porcelain lined iron which have been found totally unfit for use on account of the fact that the water has corroded the porcelain. The new tups are 6 ft. 6 in. in length, 2 ft. 6 in. wide and 2 ft. 4 in. deep. Once they are in position they will last a life time—and then some.

An addition to the hotel,—a building to contain fine bath rooms communicating directly with the hotel,—is under contemplation. In connection with this contemplated addition, the owners are thinking of putting in a swimming and plunge bath and a gasoline engine or ram with which to pump the water into the tubs.

Saratoga can congratulate herself on the fact that the Hot Springs Hotel has at last fallen into the hands of a manager who will make of it what should have been done years ago— a first class hotel and sanitarium.

He Was One of the Train Robbers.

George Currie, the man who was shot and killed in Utah recently has been fully identified by John Devore, a sheepman from Casper, Wyo., as one of the two men who took breakfast with him at his ranch shortly after the robbery and who were known to be two of the robbers.

C. R. Watson, the druggist who was in business here and is now with Creed McDaniel in Rawlins, was well acquained with George Currie, or "Flat Nosed George," and a couple of pictures of the dead outlaw were sent to Mr. Watson for identification. Mr. Watson says there is no question in his mind about the identity of the man, for he knew him well. The reward of $3000 will be claimed by the sheriffs who made the capture.

It is a remarkable fact that he died with the same boots on that he wore when he committed the robbery as was shown by the tracks. Will Roberts, the cattle rustler who escaped is believed to have also been one of the robbers.

Obituary.

George Nichols, a man in the employ of the Ferris-Haggarty company at their stables in this place, died from pneumonia last Saturday morning at the Cross boarding house and was buried that afternoon. He was a strong hearty man but succumbed to the disease after a sickness of only ten days. He was about 38 years of age and would not tell, when asked, anything about his friends and relatives, so no one, except a man who has known him for the past sixteen years and who is in the employ of the company, knows anything whatever about him. Decomposition set in immediately after his death and it was necessary to bury him as soon as pos- [illegible]

BURLINGTON MAY COME.

That Road Will Build From Guernsey To Elk Mountain This Coming Summer—Probably to Saratoga Next Year.

Every paper one picks up now is full of the news of the building westward of the Burlington from Guernsey, and all reports agree that the extension is to be to Salt Lake city and on to the Pacific coast. One point in Wyoming which is mentioned always as the objective point is Elk Mountain, where that company has large and valuable coal possessions, and all reports agree that the line will be built to that point this coming summer.

There can be no question but what the road, if built to Elk Mountain, will be extended west through this place and either pass through the mountains at the head of Grand Encampment creek, very near the Battle Lake region, or cross the point of the mountain near the head of Jack creek.

That Saratoga will have railroad communication before this time 1901, is quite certain, and it is equally certain that the coming of the Burlington will hurry the building of the Wyoming Southern, or a branch from the main line of the Union Pacific.

Give Them the Cut-Off.

Battle Lake would like a shorter route to Saratoga, and these in a position to know assert that several miles could be saved by cutting across the country after leaving the Transfer. It is claimed that such a road be constructed at a comparatively trifling expense, the money for which could easily be raised among Battle Lake's enterprising business men. Why not have a preliminary survey and estimate of the route made at once? A cut-off of this character would mean that the traveler from Battle Lake would reach Saratoga the same day and vice versa. The Miner wants to see the work taken up in a practical manner, and will start a list to that end with several big round plunks—say 5 or 10 times. Wake up neighbors and give us your counsel and assistance in the enterprise.—Battle Lake Miner.

Cripe-La Valle.

At the residence of J. D. Parker on North Fork, at 8 o'clock p. m., Saturday the 28th ult., John Cripe and Miss Mary La Valle were united in marriage, Rev. Robinson officiating.

The guests, of whom there was about twenty, sat down to a delicious supper immediately after the ceremony, which all enjoyed very much. The evening was spent in singing and social converse.

Mr. Cripe is a very estimable young man who has been a resident of this country for a few years. He was a member of Capt. L. G. Davis' troop H of Torrey's Rough Riders and was accounted one of the most efficient and reliable men in the company. He owns a ranch on Spring creek, but is at present in the employ of G. P. Mathewson, on Jack creek, where the newly wedded couple will reside for the present.

The bride is a sister of Mrs. J. D. Parker and Mrs J. C. Page. She came to this country a few years ago and has won many friends by her pleasant manner and kindness of heart.

A Promise Fulfilled.

Col. J. F. Crawford is here from Saratoga today. Having learned that the Republican had moved down stairs Col. Crawford came over to get that crook taken out of his neck which he said he contracted several months ago in attempting to carry on a conversation with ye editor who was on a scaffold endeavoring to put up some hangers for a new job press. We promised the colonel that we would move down cellar the next time he visited us, and the Republican, true to the traditions of its name, never fails to keep its promise.—Rawlins Republican.

[Neck feels a heap better, too.

THE KURTZ-CHATTERTON MINE

An Expert Sent Here to Examine and Report on that Property.—The Wages of Experts.

A Mr. Curtis, a mining expert from Detroit, Michigan, passed through here Friday on his way home after a thorough examination of the Kurtz-Chatterton mine and the properties adjoining. Mr. Curtis, who is a very skilled man in his profession, was sent here by the stockholders of that mine to make an examination solely in their interest, He made numerous tests on the ground and then took a large number of samples of ore out with him to treat in his laboratory.

Of course he would express no opinion concerning the mine or the country. It may be interesting to readers of The Sun to know that a man of that character is able to command a salary of $25 per day and all expenses as well as receiving $500 for his written report on the property examined.

Republican Primaries.

Republican primaries will be held at 2 o'clock next Saturday at the following precincts here in the valley and are to be called to order by the following named persons:

Saratoga,	4 delegates,	W. B. Hugus.
Battle Lake	1 "	J. M. Thomas.
Bennett,	1 "	W. Conlict.
Collins,	1 "	Wm. Platt.
Encampment,	1 "	W. C. Henry
Cow creek	1 "	C. M. Wilcox.
Spring creek	1 "	C. S. Miner.
Jack creek	1 "	H. D. Blydenburgh.

The county convention is called to meet in Rawlins May 15th, to elect delegates to the state convention which will be held in Cheyenne the next day, May 16th.

New Livery Stable.

Dave Richmond has commenced the erection of a story and a half addition, 40x60 feet, to his livery stable on First street. C. M. Stephenson, a carpenter who recently came here, has charge of the work.

Mr. Buchanan has charge of the foundation.

There will be a front on First street and it will be divided into stables, carriage house, office with sleeping rooms above, and a place for washing buggies The building will be a frame and will be joined on the south end of the Masonic hall.

Sam Greene in Jail.

Sheriff McDaniel returned Friday night from Vernal, Utah, bringing Sam Green back with him. Green was in jail at last accounts, though an effort was being made to have him admitted to bail.

There is general sympathy expressed for the unfortunate man, for he has always been a generous hearted sympathetic man, helping distress wherever he found it.

It will be a very difficult matter to get a jury in this country to sit at his trial.

Saratoga To Have a Brick Yard.

Cosgriff Bros. Co. has made arrangements with Eugene C. Kreigh, a former resident of Saratoga and a practical brick mason, to return here and start a brick yard, guaranteeing him the sale of 100,000 brick. Mr. Kreigh, who is in Colorado, will return here shortly and begin operations. This will be good news to the citizens of this town for they know Mr Kreigh and know that his name is a synonym for good work.

The Cripe Family

GENEALOGY COLLECTION
PUBLIC LIBRARY
FORT WAYNE & ALLEN CO., IND.

FOREWORD

The material contained in the following pages was assembled and organized by Floyd and Margaret Cripe in their winter retreat in Laguna Beach, California, during the months of February and March, 1977.

To avoid errors and omissions in a project such as this, covering 150 years and almost that many individuals, in the absence of well-documented data and records, is next to impossible.

The source of our information was:

1. The family records in a German Bible originally belonging to Grandfather Joel Wagoner.
2. The dates of birth, marriage and death of the respective families of the third generation were supplied by a representative of each family and should, therefore, be accurate.
3. The remaining information emanates from my memory of conversations with Grandmother Elizabeth Cripe, my own Mother and Father, and Uncle Ad Wagoner, and covers three-quarters of a century.

We hope you will not be too critical where errors may have occurred and will send us any corrections. If you will do that, we will see that each of our nephews and nieces receives a copy.

We want to express our thanks to each of you for your interest and cooperation in supplying us with the data relating to your own respective family.

All in all, it has been an interesting endeavor and we hope it may help some in getting all the members of the Cripe family to know each other a little better.

We also hope that some of you will keep the record current in the coming years.

Such virtue will bring its own reward.

THE CRIPE FAMILY

There is nothing new or novel about a Family Tree. It appears that compiling a family record may be one of the earliest exercises of the human race. One whole chapter of the book of Genesis is devoted to the generation of Noah, recording who begat whom. These records are thought to have been compiled some 5,000 years ago. Somewhat later David the Shepard tending his flock by night gazed upward at the twinkling stars and mused "What is man that thou art mindful of him, or son of man that thou visiteth him." Although man's wonderment as to who he is, and what he is, is neither new or strange, it does seem that the question has taken on a new dimension and a new interest in recent years, especially in the United States. Witness the greatly heralded success of "Roots", the story of one black family whose ancestor was traced back to his African origin.

The recent acceleration of interest by Americans in their origin seems quite natural, in light of the circumstances that have been rather unique in these times. All so-called Americans, except the American Indian, migrated to this strange and wonderful land from the four corners of the earth. Not only was the journey long, arduous and risky, but it necessitated breaking away from their family and friends, in many cases forever, and going it alone without the moral and spiritual support of family and relatives.

During this process many, if not most, became so engrossed in the pursuit of gain, plus the stark necessity of mere survival coupled with the great distances from their fatherland, that all contact and communication became greatly diluted, and in many cases lost altogether.

Now that many have it made (so to speak), they find a void and a longing to know who they really are, and the fibre and character of their forebears. The drive to know who one is becomes stronger with successive years and also, seemingly when and after individuals have achieved some semblance of fame.

For this reason we have undertaken the task of assembling some chronological data so that both present and future generations may better evaluate themselves and know the type of genes they have fallen heir to and the genetic forces that may influence their lives.

We had no authentic source thru which to trace this genealogy back further than 150 or 160 years. But even in that relatively brief history, the genes that each of us may carry have become so hopelessly scrambled by intermarriages thru the years that the influence of Leonard Cripe and Joel Wagoner and their respective wives have become greatly diluted, to say the least.

We cannot refrain from noting here that if our progeny will bother to add to and periodically revise our contribution for the next 150 years, they will have a rather adequate evaluation of the blood, gray matter and tissue of which they are constituted.

Well, that's a lot of meaningless words when what we want to know is who were our forebears, what were they like, what did they do and think, and what contribution, if any, did they make to the sum total of human worth?

When I was a young boy my grandmother, Elizabeth (Diehl) Cripe lived with our family from my earliest memory until her death in 1904. Her age at death was 84 and I was age 10. Needless to say, Grandmother often acted in the capacity of babysitter for me during my tender years. Being a curious and very inquisitive lad, I asked many questions and she seemed to enjoy telling me about her early life and struggles. She related that the Diehl family had migrated to Tippecanoe County, Indiana from Pennsylvania, via Ohio, when she was about seven years old, which would have been about 1827. She said the group arrived at their destination ten miles northeast of Lafayette, Indiana in late October.

Winter set in unusually early that year, before her folks were able to complete their log cabins and they were forced to live in tents all winter. Like many early settlements, Lafayette was built at the confluence of two streams, in this case, the Tippecanoe and Wabash Rivers. I well remember her relating that my Grandfather, her husband, would load as many sacks of wheat and corn as he could get on two horses to take to the nearest grist mill in Lafayette, ten miles distance, to have it ground into flour and corn meal; enroute he had to ford two streams. The round trip and the milling of the grain took him away from home two days and a night. The thrilling part of the story, as she told it, was that while he was away she was very uneasy, for she could see Indians roaming in the distance and her sleep was often interrupted by the howl of wolves.

Only a few years earlier this section of Indiana was Indian Territory. The battle of Tippecanoe, where William Henry Harrison defeated Tecumseh in 1811, was only a six-mile distance. The battleground is now a State Park and when I visited it as a boy a cannonball fired during the battle was still embedded in a tree. In my early years on the farm I had a shoebox full of Indian arrows I picked up in the fields each year after spring plowing.

Grandfather Leonard Cripe and Grandmother Elizabeth laid claim to a 160-acre grant at $1.25 per acre. The land on which the home buildings are located and where Maurice lives, was part of the original grant. The original title bears the signature of Andrew Jackson.

Unfortunately, Grandfather Leonard was killed at age 29 when a horse kicked him in the head and Grandmother was left with three small children. Being unable to pay the taxes, she eventually lost the farm. My father worked 55 years and bought back the 11 acres on which the home buildings are located. 6 ch. - owned - in early years

The main part of the farm, 80 acres, is across the road north of the buildings. I have said several times that part of the original grant had been owned by the Cripe family and the sheriff for 120 years. It has been continuously in the Cripe name since 1913, 64 years.

Chris = 120.8.4.5.4

THE CRIPE FAMILY

My father, Chris, was only five years old when Grandfather Leonard was killed. Dad had two older brothers, Daniel and Jacob. Daniel had six children, but I have lost track of all of them. Jacob had three children, all are now deceased, only one of Jacob's children ever married. Dad had only five weeks of formal schooling and never learned to read nor write. His name is shown on his marriage license as Christian and on some other legal documents as Christopher. I do not know which was correct and I doubt whether he did. My reasoning is that when a document was drawn up for his X mark and the party asked, is your first name Christopher, he would say, yes. The next time, the party might have said, is your first name Christian, and again he would say, yes. As far as he was concerned, his name was just plain Chris.

I hope no one reading this will come to the conclusion that Chris Cripe was an ignoramus because of his lack of formal education. In the attached chart his occupation is shown as Farmer and Jack of all Trades. Being a Jack of all Trades in that day was not only an honorable but a rather enviable label, since it was almost an essential talent if one wanted to survive. Dad was totally at home in the woods and could handle an axe with the skill of a lumberjack, a trade that he followed in his early youth. He was a reasonably good carpenter. He had quite a reputation as a butcher and acted in that capacity not only for the needs of his family, but for many of the neighbors as well. His capacity to calculate the market value of a load of corn, wheat, or cattle was most uncanny. He could figure faster in his head than I could with pen and pencil.

Mother was a great reader and she read to Dad by the hour, after the chores were completed. In this way Dad kept informed about events at home and abroad. Dad had an indelible memory; he could repeat almost verbatim a sermon or conversation he had heard, and his memory for names and faces was truly remarkable. He could call almost anyone by name he ever met.

Chris Cripe literally pulled himself up by his bootstraps, and by dint of hard work and long hours, he and Mom carved a farm out of the forest and swamp of Clay Township, Carrol County, Indiana. Dad was well aware of his educational handicap and wanted his sons to have all the educational advantages possible. Three of his five sons attended college and attained professional degrees.

Dad constantly urged his sons to become their own boss. I can still hear him saying, "Whatever wage or salary anyone may be willing to pay you, you should be worth more to yourself than what anyone will be willing to pay to you." This exhortation must have been effective, as all five of his sons eventually operated their own show; one became a doctor, one a veterinarian, two were farmers, and I was an independent commissioned salesman for 50 years, and scarcely knew what a salary check looked like.

Dad and Mother were honest, hard-working, law-abiding citizens, highly respected by their neighbors, friends and fellow church workers.

It seems that by precept and example they placed the stamp of integrity and sterling character on their progeny. As a descendant of these simple but genuine individuals, we may well be proud of the solid worth of their lives which is our genetic heritage. May we guard it well, is my prayer.

Nathaniel Cripe, a resident of Clinton County, Indiana, being duly affirmed on his affirmation says:

130.8.4.6

That he was personally and intimately acquainted with the John W. Cripe who is named as grantees in the deed of conveyance executed by John O. Scott and wife, dated August 23, 1869, and recorded in Deed Record 32, at page 125, of the Records of Deeds of said Clinton County, Indiana;

Affiant further says from his own personal knowledge that the said John W. Cripe departed this life, intestate, in Clinton County, Indiana, on or about the 29th day of May, 1876, and that he left surviving him as his sole and only heirs at law, the following named persons, and none other, to-wit:

Mary A. Cripe, his widow, and
Isaac F. Cripe
Elizabeth E. Cripe
Mary A. Cripe
John W. Cripe
Margaret J. Cripe, and
Noah D. Cripe, all children of said decedent; that said decedent left no descendent of a deceased child surviving him;

Affiant further says that the said Mary A. Cripe, widow of the said John W. Cripe, departed this life in said Clinton County, intestate and unmarried, on or about the -- day of September 1884, leaving surviving her as her sole and only heirs at law, her children, the children of the said John W. Cripe, deceased, as herein above set out;

Affiant further says that the above named Elizabeth E. Cripe was commonly known by the name of "Lizzie"Cripe/ and that she is the same and identical person as the Lizzie Cr who joins in the waiver of summons in the proceedings to sell real estate brought by Amos Goff, administrator of the estate of said Mary A. Cripe, deceased, vs the heirs of said decedent, as appears recorded in Complete Record 19, at page 317, of the Records in the Office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of said Clinton County;

Notes

John Cripe and Alice Stong 's marriage license was from Carrall Clinton Co., Ind. but they were actually married in Miami Co., In. They were married by a Isaac F. Cripe, believed to be John's brother.

Obit: Rites Held Monday for John W. Cripe, Starkweather. Funeral services for John W. Cripe, 77, pioneer resident of the Newville community , who died Saturday were held Monday morning in the Methodist Church here. Reverend Myers of Cando, assisted by Rev. F. Forster, pastor of the local church, officiated at the services.
Born at Hillisburgh, Ind. September 6, 1862 Mr. Cripe came to Devils Lake April 5, 1895 and in 1898 took up a homestead five miles northwest of Starkweather. He is survived by five children; John of Chinook, Mont., William of Bismarck, Jessie of Oklee, Minn., Martha of Los Angeles, Calif., and Eva of Black Wells, Texas.
Burial was made in the Salem cemetary near Newville.

John Cripe owned the Dakota Hotel in Newville, N. D. He also had a farm implement store there. He was a game warden, a judge, county assessor among other jobs. He was a state representative to the N. Dak. Democratic party. He applied for a patent for a straw rack for a separator. I do not know if it was granted. From all the newpaper articles I have collected on John Cripe, he was a well liked and thought of person. In his later years, he was ornery and the doctor at Bismarck said he had a brain tumor and was put in the State Hospital for the Insane at Jamestown, N. D. He died there after being there only 1 month and 1 day.

Moran High School.

On Thanksgiving day the patrons and pupils presented a large crowd of visitors with a sumptuous feast. At 9 o'clock the school assembled in the upper room. Opening exercise was conducted by Miss Ida Clark, assisted by the primary school. This was followed with reading by the fifth grade. Our progress in this direction delayed by the continual passing in of unlooked-for but welcome visitors. Reading by the third grade was next; this was succeeded by fourth grade reading. A few recitations were then produced by Miss Laura Roth, Miss Franke Corwin, Sherman McCarty, Clinton Wida, Miss Amy Roth, Miss Della Kerr and Sherman Coulter. These were well received.

Near 11 o'clock the Lone Star school appeared, lead by their teacher, Mr A. Michael. Until this time the upper room failed to furnish room for all, so part collected on the school ground to indulge themselves in ball, while others congregated in the lower room and hall.

At 11:30 the school was dismissed in order to arrange dinner. Then we turned over the well-filled baskets, and rolled the "Jumbo" turkeys out on the table. Two tables the full length of the room were heavy loaded with turkey, chicken, cake, etc. There was hardly standing room for all; but we had plenty of eatables left. Aunt Polly brought to our realization once more the solemnity of the occasion, by returning thanks, and then we began each for himself. The enjoyment we realized in so meeting is better known than expressed.

At or near 12 o'clock we adjourned from the table to the meadow of Mr James Gray's, and then about fifty of us enjoyed one of the most pleasant games of ball of the season. The school house bell tolled regularly, not particularly to bring to our ears the memory of those departed turkeys; but to remind us that the girls did not intend to give us any rest until we came and fixed the stove pipe if; they had to hollow fire! fire! fire!

About two o'clock the school was called to order and recitations were delivered by the school and others. We then resorted to spelling. Near 3:30 they yielded the laurels to Miss Yundt, and that ended the days program. Many thanks to the patrons, pupils and visitors.

The little childrens 10 cent concert Saturday night in the M. E. Church, for the benefit of the Sunday school was interesting, the little boys and girls although so small performed well; the Lords prayer was good. But the most interesting piece that was performed on the stage was by little Gerty Short, representing the little poor girl on the street, in its barefeet and rags, lamenting its condition. The piece was performed well, and it was as striking as the drama, Over the hills to the poor house.

Edward Pugalist's weight is about five hundred when he hears the boys sing Hail Columbia Happy Land, a new song he purchased to sing [illegible] customer.

The hog trade is booming now, buyers are flying around over the country buying every fat hog they can get at $4.50 per hundred, but should it [illegible] warm and rain in a few days, together [illegible] a rush of hogs to the market, we fear prices will drop and some of the boys will loose money.

Notice of Election.

Notice is hereby given of an Election to be held at the Castle Hall of Shield Lodge No. 71 K. of P., at a regular meeting of said Lodge, on the 31st day of December 1883, for the purpose of electing three Trustees of said Lodge.

CHAS. E. MORRIS.
December 11, 1883. K. of P. & S.

ROSSVILLE, IND., Dec, 5, 1883.

Ross township teacher's institute called to order by the chairman, E. A. Stafford, singing led by N. F. Hazlett. Mr. Stafford made a few appropriate remarks, after which the roll was called. Present: E. A. Stafford, Mary Fisher, Mrs. Gaddis, N. F. Hazlett, Lizzie Rose, C. W. Sheridan, H. H. Hackard, Benj. Roth, R. G. Moore, W. N. Clark. Absent; M. N. Stewart. Tardy; Lizzie Rose, C. W. Sheridan.

The proceedings of the last meeting were read and approved. The discussion of the first subject on program, "Hygiene," was opened by E. A. Stafford. Omitting hereditary disease, the teacher is to a great extent responsible for the health of his pupils. All violations of health are punished. Nature's account is strictly kept. The laws of health should be understood by the teacher. He spoke as to the agents,—light, heat, and air. Food,—the kind to school life. A change of life requires a change of food. Bathing and exercise were next noticed, closing the subject with an experiment in chemistry.

Mr Hackard read an essay on reading, which was well received.

"Elementary Grammar" was taken up by Mr Hazlett. There is no royal road to grammar. The meaning of terms must be learned, sentences must be constructed and analyzed, words must be parsed, before the pupil can comprehend the philosophy that underlies the correct use of language. He advanced the idea that the teacher begins where the child's knowledge in language lessons ends. The period of transition should be gradual, step by step, word by word. Synthesis then parsing. Require the class to bring up sentences of their own construction. To develop the term noun, permit the class to bring up names of objects in school-room. The teacher separates them into two classes. Teach them the names of these objects are nouns. Give definition of noun. Teach modifications the case later. Drill in parsing. Teach other parts of speech in a similar manner.

Mr Roth read a paper on "Management," followed by members of the institute in discussion. An essay on "Declamation and Reading" was read by Mrs Gaddis.

After a recess of fifteen minutes, Mr Moore took up the subject of history. History is useful as moral instruction; as, the lives of Franklin, Clay, Webster, Washington. A man is not capable of holding office unless well informed in history. It cultivates and strengthens the memory. Teach the more important date and facts. Discussion. "A Lesson on the use of the Globe," by Miss Fisher, came next. She handled the subject well, explaining the change of seasons by means of the globe. The subject created intense interest and was followed by Messrs. Hazlett, Hackard, Moore and Stafford, in general discussion.

Arithmetic was opened by Mr Clark. He suggested that a teacher should be well informed on the subject. A teacher should not be judged incompetent if he fails to get an answer correct to within one-half cent. Neither if he fails to unlock a problem immediately. The public should not recognize a teacher as some "Walking Cyclopedia,". The teacher should not indulge in "tricky" problems which are taken from some newspaper. Pupils in class should be kept together. Review frequently.

Mr Sheridan gave a talk on the "Use of the Dictionary." The dictionary is the great reference book. The pupil acquires his vocabulary through a use of the definition of a word. Designate words to be defined. A work on synonyms is useful in composition. It is useful for to obtain correct pronunciation of words; also in tracing the origin of words. Illustrated matter important.

The committee on program reported the following subjects for next meeting: Physiology—E. A. Stafford. Advanced Grammar—N. F. Hazlett, Essay—W. N. Clark. Primary Reading—Mrs Gaddis, Misses Fisher and Rose. Literary Exercise—C. W. Sheridan. Reviews—Benj. Roth. Examinations—H. H. Hackard. Civil Government—Messrs. Moore and Stewart. Institute adjourned to meet the second Saturday of January, 1884.

N. F. HAZLETT, Sec'y.

A visit to the newly refitted mill of J. D. Fritch & Co. will convince any one that they have one of the completest mills in all the country. This is distinctively a mill in which all the grinding is done by the roller presses. No stones are used except for grinding corn. The Union Roller Mills use the gradual reduction process by means of which the grain passes through a series of rollers each set of rollers reducing the flour and making it finer than the preceding. In the mean time while passing from one set of rollers to another the flour also passes through purifiers in which all dust and other impurities are blown out. The process is a long one; the grain and flour passes up and down some 22 times before it is finally delivered ready for use. J. D. Fritch & Co. have put in this mill more than $10,000 worth of machinery. The mill is completely remodled; it is a new mill in fact.

Hillisburg.

School is progressing.

Dr Cook, our P. M., spent a few days in Illinois on business.

Dr J. A. Haggard has moved into his own residence, which he purchased of David Jones.

Wednesday being the sixth birthday of Miss Lenora Benjamin, a number of her little friends were invited in to spend the evening with her. It was a complete surprise. And after partaking of a bountiful supper and enjoying themselves sometime, the children returned to their respective homes.

Mr George Mann, living east of town, is not expected to live.

Mrs Noah Henry died on Thursday and was buried Friday.

Frankfort Grain Markets.

(Furnished by Campbell & Young, Grain Dealers, Dec. 12, 1883.)

The grain markets are very much unsettled. Milling wheat is in good demand and higher, while the low grades are dull at last quotation. Corn is higher for good grades, but soft corn is hard to sell.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.—One of our prominent business men said to us the other day: "In the spring my wife got all run down and could not eat any thing; passing your store I saw a pile of Hood's Sarsaparilla in the window, and I got a bottle. After she had taken it a week she had a rousing appetite, and did her everything. She took three bottles, and it was the best three dollars I ever invested. C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell Mass.

who gave us fresh thoughts, and with terest we received new ideas.

So important is our work, that we seek help from all sources, and perhap some hints from these veritable childish ences. Teaching requires all the mind and heart devoted to it with rea ness. The teacher needs each Sunday definite idea of what he is going to the subject may well occupy his thoughts the week.

Any one who feels what he is doing the need of prayer he will expect to answer in a blessing on his study—no that dispenses with his efforts; assist labor—not without them."

Each one must do much of his own especially in fitting a subject to the class.

Once a week teachers should meet their lessons; with the aid of prop helps. The close of the evening can be a free discussion of the subject, more formal as desired.

Would not something of this kind better preparation of the lesson, and unity of feeling among the teachers"

How shall we train the young people the ranks full? The cry comes with and increasing concern. What ca keep our larger pupils? "The big boy from our grasp." The only answer is parents in, bring the older people in, gether, of all ages and grades of years studying the word of God, in classes, scholars will find no place for slipping loop-hole of escape on the plea of size position. Establish this as a principle labors. Settle it as a fact in your ations. It is the true view. Adults, and others, need the personal contact living teacher, and the personal study search into the word of God which the this congregational bible study. Aga should be punctual; perhaps if there is more than another calculated to dis demoralize a class, we would say it is of punctuality on the part of the Teachers should make it a rule so far to be punctual. Then I would say to fill possible to be punctual.

Then too no School can afford to literature. Either a good library or Every boy and girl in the school sho a paper, that he or she can call their the Sabbath day is thus spent in gain and instructive knowledge, instead time away in the many useless if not times and Sabbath desecrations.

Since so much depends on the rising tion let us spare no pains to see that are directed in the proper channel. pends on the teachers and officers of school, we need intelligence and earne is there anything we do not need? sibilities are indeed weighty; then say to the teacher:—

"Thou must be true thyself.
If thou the truth wouldst teach
Thy soul must overflow, if thou
Another soul wouldst reach;
It needs the overflowing heart
To give the lips full speech.
Think truly, and thy thoughts
Shall the worlds famine feed;
Speak truly, and thy word
Shall be a fruitful seed;
Live truly and thy life shall be
A great and noble creed."

Dear Delores,

Regarding your request for information on the William Spillman family, you will find enclosed the following:

Record of Funeral for William Spillman; Naylor-Quinn Funeral Home
Article mentioning William Spillman's death; The Modern Light, April 16, 1925
Obituary for Mrs. Belle Spillman; The Modern Light, March 4, 1948
Marriage Record for Elizabeth Spillman and Audrian O. McLaughlin; Cherokee County, Kansas Marriage Book P:249
1920 Federal Census report sheet for the McLaughlin family living in Crawford County, Kansas
Find-A-Grave Memorial sheet for William A. McLaughlin

I called the Cherokee, Kansas City Hall and the clerk stated that both William and Belle Spillman are buried in the Cherokee Cemetery in Crawford County, Kansas, not in the cemetery at Hallowell. Evidently, they ae buried there without tombstones.

It looks like Elizabeth and Audrian Oliver McLauglin were divorced as Audrian died in 1959 in El Paso, Texas. I checked divorce records in both Cherokee and Crawford Counties and they were not listed. Possibly their divorce took place in Oklahoma, as that is where Elizabeth was living when her father died. She then married a Mr. Hughes sometime before 1948.

Thank you for the donation. If you need further assistance in your search, let me know.

Sincerely,

Ella

The Senior play of the high school will be presented in the high school auditorium Friday and Saturday nights of this week. The play is a 3 act comedy. Several good musical numbers will be rendered between acts.

Mrs. Eliezabeth McLaughlin of Hernyetta, Okla., was called here last week on account of the death of her father William Spillman.

James Thompson left Sunday for Wellington, Kan., where he will spend several days on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Haskins and son Jack were Pittsburg visitors Monday evening.

Mrs. W. H. Fry of south of town is seriously ill.

Mrs. J. W. Pilkington will return home the latter part of the week from the Mount Carmel hospital where she has been for the past four weeks.

William Meires has bought the D. Ryan property and is making some improvements on it.

The Eagle lodge gave an ice cream iss Lucy Egger and Fannie Bruno who teach in Kansas City, spent Easter with their parents here.

Miss Marian Gregg visited Easter Sunday with her parents her.

The Jolly club will meet Thursday at the home of Mrs. Pete Harrison.

(From High School Record)

Dinner Served To Trustees

Tuesday, the trustees of C. C. C. H. S. were served an Easter dinner in the school dinning room. The centerpiece was formed by a rabbit, a nest, and some easter eggs, with a border of daffodils. A yellow and green color scheme was carried out in the menu which was as follows:

Grapefruit Orage Cocktail
Veal Birds Potato Eggs
Buttered Carots with peas
Almond Rolls Butter
Lental Salad.
Orange Pekoe Nests
Walnut Oatmeal Cookies

The following members were present: Mrs. Ethel Lock, Mrs. Sadie Nice, Messrs. Henry Hamlet, H. I. Brookhart, William Swalley, and A. J. Wright.

Ona Marshall and Ella Atkinson, last year's graduates, who are teaching at Scammon, visited the Normal Training Department Wednesday.

State of Indiana } Clinton Common Pleas
Clinton County } June term 1857,

Hon. J C Applegate Judge:

The petition of Susanna Cripe respectfully shows to the Court, That she is the widow and relict of Daniel Cripe deceased who departed this life intestate, on or about the tenth day of May in the year of Our Lord One thousand Eight hundred forty Eight in the county of Montgomery and State of Ohio. And your petitioner is still a widow and has never been married since the death of her said late husband. That said deceased at and before the time of his death, was the owner and lawfully seized in fee simple of the following described tracts and parcells of land situate in the said County of Clinton and State of Indiana to wit: The North East quarter of Section One and the South East quarter of Section Five in Congressional township number twenty two north, in Range two west; also the west half of the north East quarter and the east half of the north west quarter of Section thirty in township twenty three north in Range two west. Also the South East quarter of the North East quarter of Section fourteen (14) ~~Town~~ Township

Twenty two north of Range two West; also the South East Quarter of Section one Township twenty one Range one East.

Together with all the appurtenances to the same belonging: all of which has ever since the death of said deceased remained and still remains unsold and ~~in the same~~ of disposed of in any way whatever and the title thereto still in his name. Your petitioner further shows; that when deceased departed this life he left surviving him besides your petitioner the following named legitimate lineal descendants ~~as~~ his heirs at law, to wit: David Cripe and Daniel Cripe Jr, his sons, and Elizabeth Cripe, Susanna Cripe Jr, Magdalene Cripe, Esther Cripe, and Barbara Cripe, his daughters. That the said Daniel Cripe Jr, departed this life, intestate on or about the 1st day of September A.D 1854, leaving a widow (Susanna Cripe, who is still unmarried) and Samuel Cripe now aged five years, David Cripe now aged four years, and Esther Cripe now aged two years, as his infant Children and legitimate heirs at law. That said Susanna Cripe, the daughter then of said Daniel Cripe Sen., is now intermarried with one Aaron Cripe, that the said Magdalene Cripe is now intermarried with one Isaac Cripe, and said Elizabeth Cripe is now intermarried with one Stephen Cripe. Your petitioner further shows that the said "Ester" Cripe on or about the * day of * A.D. 1855 died intestate unmarried and without children, and that your petitioner is her mother.

Your petitioner further shows that the said Daniel Cripe Jr. (up to the time of his decease and since that his said widow & children, David Cripe, Susanna Cripe and her said husband Aaron Cripe, Magdalene Cripe & Isaac Cripe, her husband, and Elizabeth Cri and Stephen Cripe, her husband, have been ever since the decease of the said Daniel Cripe Sen., in possession of and the sole occupants of the premises aforesaid and have all that time ~~enjoy~~ enjoyed all the benefits, "proffits", rents and issues and "privaliges" of the same to the exclusion of your petitioner. Wherefore your petitioner alledges that she is entitled to a life estate in one third part of said premises as the widow of the said Daniel Cripe, Sen., and also one fourteenth part thereof in fee simple as the mother and heir of the said Esther Cripe, deceased. and an adequate ~~share of~~ compensation for her share of the rents & proffits of the same since the deaths of her said husband & daughter. She therefore prays that the said David Cripe, Susanna Cripe, Aaron Cripe, ~~Mary~~ Magdalene Cripe & Isaac Cripe, Elizabeth Cripe & Stephen Cripe, and the said Susanna Cripe, widow of Daniel Cripe Jr., and the said Samuel Cripe, Dan[illegible] Cripe & Esther Cripe, Chi[illegible] said Daniel Cripe Jr., and Isara Cripe be made defendants to this petition. and that the Court appoint some discreet and proper persons Guardians ad litem for said infants including said Barbara who is also an infant. And that your petitioner have Judgment for partition of her said interest in said premises and that the lawful number of duly qualified Commissioners be ~~app~~ appointed and ordered by the Court to assign the same and that she have Judgment against said defendants (except the said Barbara) for so much as the rents and proffits of her interest thereof is worth during the time they have

vs }
Isaac Cripe } Petition for
David ~~Daniel~~ Cripe } Dower &c
Stephen Cripe }
& others }

Now comes the said plaintiff, by her attorney, and demurrs to each severy paragraph the answer of the defendants by them heretofore filed and for Cause of demurrer Show, 1st As to the first paragraph of said answer plaintiff says it is irregular and void - by not specifically denying any of the material allegations in the plaintiffs petition it bears on its face a tacit admission of all of them and consequently of plaintiffs right to recover in manner & form as she has claimed in her petition.

2d As to the second paragraph of said Answer said plaintiff says, It does not show that plaintiff ever released her dower in the lands described in her petition and if true it only shows an irregular Contract ~~to~~ between said plff and a part of the heirs of said ~~David~~ Daniel Cripe deceased which is void for irregularity and can be rescinded at the pleasure of any of the parties thereto.

3d And as to the third paragraph to said answer plaintiff says; it is insufficient because it does not show that plaintiff released her said Dower &c as therein alledged, by Deed under Seal, or that there was any sufficient consideration moving to her to give validity to such release. Neither the written release therein referred to nor a copy is alledged to be filed, nor is it in point of fact filed.

4th Said third paragraph is defective for the further reason that by not denying the allegation in the petition that the defendant Barbara Cripe is an infant, hence it admits the allegation to be true, which fact avoids the said Contract therein referred to if any such were made.

5th As to the fifth paragraph of said answer plff says, It does not state facts sufficient to constitute a defense to plff's right of recovery or any part thereof — It does not state with whom plff "made an agreement Nor from whom She received or who paid her the said sum of eight hundred dollars - It does not State that She released said Dower by deed or otherwise 6th No part of said answer denies the right, which plaintiff sets up in her petition, of partition of one half of the interest of Esther Cripe deceased in said land.

4861 On Estate of Daniel Cripe 130.8.5 Misc. Rec

State of Indiana, County of Clinton, ss:

130.8.5.3 = Samuel B. Cripe, a resident of Clinton County, Indiana, being duly sworn on his oath, says:

That he was born in the year 1849;

That he is a grandson of the Daniel Cripe who is named as grantee in the patent deed issued by the State of Indiana, dated May 15, 1845, and recorded in Deed Record 20, at page 119, of the Records of Deeds of said Clinton County, Indiana, and that by reason of such relationship he was intimately acquainted with the family of the said Daniel Cripe and with the family history of said grantee, and says:

That said Daniel Cripe, grantee as aforesaid, departed this life, intestate, prior to the 24th day of October, 1848, leaving surviving him as his sole and only heirs at law the following named persons and none other, to-wit:

Susannah Cripe, his widow, commonly known as Susan Cripe, and David Cripe, Susan Cripe,
Elizabeth Cripe, Daniel Cripe, the father of this affiant 130.8.5
Mary Cripe, Esther Cripe, and
Barbara Cripe, all children of said decedent; that said decedent left no descendent of a deceased child surviving him;

Affiant further says that the above named Esther Cripe departed this life, intestate, unmarried and without issue, on or about the 15th day of October 1855, leaving surviving her as her sole and only heirs at law, her mother and her brothers and sisters as above named;

Affiant further says that the above named Susannah Cripe, widow, David Cripe, Daniel Cripe, Elizabeth Cripe and Mary Cripe, are respectively the same and identical persons as the Susan Cripe, widow of Daniel Cripe, deceased, the David Cripe, the Daniel Cripe and the Elizabeth Cripe who are named as grantors, and the Mary Cripe, who is named as grantee, all in the deed of conveyance dated October 24, 1848, and recorded in Deed Record 11, at page 484, of the Records of Deeds of said Clinton County, Indiana, and that on the date of the execution of said deed, the said Elizabeth Cripe was unmarried and of legal age;

Affiant further says that the Miss Susan Cripe who is named as grantor in the deed of conveyance executed to Mary Cripe, who grantee says is the Mary Cripe herein above named, dated September 28, 1853, and recorded in Deed Record 20, at page 120, of the Records of Deeds of said Clinton County, was on the date of the execution of said

Moren High School.

On Thanksgiving day the patrons and pupils presented a large crowd of visitors with a sumptuous feast. At 9 o'clock the school assembled in the upper room. Opening exercise was conducted by Miss Ida Clark, assisted by the primary school. This was followed with reading by the fifth grade. Our progress in this direction delayed by the contenual passing in of noisesome but welcome visitors, Reading by the third grade was next; this was succeeded by fourth grade reading. A few resitations were then produced by Miss Laura Roth, Miss Franke Corwin, Sherman McCarty, Clinton Wida, Miss Amy Roth, Miss Della Kerr and Snerman Coulten. These were well received.

Near 11 o'clock the Lone Star school appeared, lead by their teacher, Mr A. Michael. Until this time the upper room failed to furnish room for all, so part collected on the school ground to indulge themselves in ball, while others congregated in the lower room and hall.

At 11:30 the school was dismissed in order to arrange dinner. Then we turned over the well-filled baskets, and rolled the "Jumbo" turkeys out on the table. Two tables the full length of the room were heavy loaded with turkey, chicken, cake, etc. There was hardly standing room for all; but we had plenty of eatables left. Aunt Polly brought to our realization once more the solemnity of the occasion, by returning thanks, and then we began each for himself. The enjoyment we realized in so meeting is better known than expressed.

At or near 12 o'clock we adjourned from the table to the meadow of Mr James Gray's, and then about fifty of us enjoyed one of the most pleasant games of ball of the season. The school house bell tolled regularly, not particularly to bring to our ears the memory of those departed turkeys; but to remind us that the girls did not intend to give us any rest until we came and fixed the stove pipe if they had to hollow fire! fire! fire!

About two o'clock the school was called to order and recitations were delivered by the school and others. We then resorted to spelling. Near 3:30 they yielded the laurels to Miss Yundt, and that ended the days program. Many thanks to the patrons, pupils and visitors.

The little childrens 10 cent concert Saturday night in the M. E. Church, for the benefit of the Sunday school was interesting, the little boys and girls although so small performed well; the Lords prayer was good. But the most interesting piece that was performed on the stage was by little Gerty Short, representing the little poor girl on the street, in its barefeet and rags, lamenting its condition. The piece was performed well, and it was as striking as the drama, Over the hills to the poor house.

Edward Pugelist's weight is about five hundred when he hears the boys sing Hail Columbia Happy Land, a new song he purchased to sing to a lady customer.

The hog trade is booming now, buyers are flying around over the country buying every fat hog they can get at $4.50 per hundred, but should it turn warm and rain in a few days, together with a rush of hogs to the market, we fear prices will drop and some of the boys will loose money. CHIPPAWAY.

ROSSVILLE, IND., Dec, 5, 1883.

Ross township teacher's institute called to order by the chairman, E. A. Stafford, singing led by N. E. Hazlett. Mr. Stafford made a few appropriate remarks, after which the roll was called. Present: E. A. Stafford, Mary Fisher, Mrs. Gaddis, N. F. Hazlett, Lizzie Rose, C. W. Sheridan, H. H. Hackard, Benj. Roth, R. G. Moore, W. N. Clark. Absent; M. N. Stewart. Tardy; Lizzie Rose, C. W. Sheridan.

The proceedings of the last meeting were read and approved. The discussion of the first subject on program, "Hygiene," was opened by E. A. Stafford. Omitting hereditary disease, the teacher is to a great extent responsible for the health of his pupils. All violations of health are punished. Nature's account is strictly kept. The laws of health should be understood by the teacher. He spoke as to the agents,—light, heat, and air. Food,—the kind to school life. A change of life requires a change of food. Bathing and exercise were next noticed, closing the subject with an experiment in chemistry.

Mr Hackard read an essay on reading, which was well received.

"Elementary Grammar" was taken up by Mr Hazlett. There is no royal road to grammar. The meaning of terms must be learned, sentences must be constructed and analyzed, words must be parsed, before the pupil can comprehend the philosophy that underlies the correct use of language. 'He advanced the idea that the teacher begins where the child's knowledge in language lessons ends. The period of transition should be gradual, step by step, word by word. Synthesis then parsing. Require the class to bring up sentences of their own construction. To develop the term noun, permit the class to bring up names of objects in school-room. The teacher separates them into two classes. Teach them the names of these objects are nouns, Give definition of noun. Teach modifications the case later. Drill in parsing. Teach other parts of speech in a similar manner.

Mr Roth read a paper on "Management," followed by members of the institute in discussion. An essay on "Declamation and Reading" was read by Mrs Gaddis.

After a recess of fifteen minutes, Mr Moore took up the subject of history. History is useful as moral instruction; as, the lives of Franklin, Clay, Webster, Washington. A man is not capable of holding office unless well informed in history. It cultivates and strengthens the memory. Teach the more important date and facts. Discussion. "A Lesson on the use of the Globe," by Miss Fisher, came next. She handled the subject well, explaining the change of seasons by means of the globe. The subject created intense interest and was followed by Messrs. Hazlett, Hackard, Moore and Stafford, in general discussion.

Arithmetic was opened by Mr Clark. He suggested that a teacher should be well informed on the subject. A teacher should not be judged incompetent if he fails to get an answer correct to within one-half cent. Neither if he fails to unlock a problem immediately. The public should not recognize a teacher as some "Walking Cyclopedia,". The teacher should not indulge in "tricky" problems which are taken from some newspaper. Pupils in class should be kept together, Review frequently.

Mr Sheridan gave a talk on the "Use of the Dictionary." The dictionary is the great reference book. The pupil acquires his vocabulary through a use of the definition of a word. Designate words to be defined. A work on synonyms is useful in composition. It is useful for to obtain correct pronunciation of words; also in tracing the origin of words. Illustrated matter important.

The committee on program reported the following subjects for next meeting: Physiology—E. A. Stafford. Advanced Grammar—N. F. Hazlett, Essay—W. N. Clark. Primary Reading—Mrs Gaddis, Misses Fisher and Rose. Literary Exercise—C. W. Sheridan. Reviews—Benj. Roth. Examinations—H. H. Hackard. Civil Government—Messrs, Moore and Stewart. Institute adjourned to meet the second Saturday of January, 1884. N. F. HAZLETT, Sec'y.

A visit to the newly refitted mill of J. D. Fritch & Co. will convince any one that they have one of the completest mills in all the country. This is distinctively a mill in which all the grinding is done by the roller presses. No stones are used except for grinding corn. The Union Roller Mills use the gradual reduction process by means of which the grain passes through a series of rollers each set of rollers reducing the flour and making it finer than the preceding. In the mean time while passing from one set of rollers to another the flour also passes through purifiers in which all dust and other impurites are blown out. The process is a long one; the grain and flour passes up and down some 22 times before it is finally delivered ready for use. J. D. Fritch & Co. have put in this mill more than $10,000 worth of machinery. The mill is completely remodled; it is a new mill in fact.

Moren High School.

On Thanksgiving day the patrons and pupils presented a large crowd of visitors with a sumptuous feast. At 9 o'clock the school assembled in the upper room. Opening exercise was conducted by Miss Ida Clark, assisted by the primary school. This was followed with reading by the fifth grade. Our progress in this direction delayed by the continual passing in of noisesome but welcome visitors, Reading by the third grade was next; this was succeeded by fourth grade reading. A few recitations were then produced by Miss Laura Roth, Miss Franke Corwin, Sherman McCarty, Clinton Wida, Miss Amy Roth, Miss Della Kerr and Sherman Coulter. These were well received.

Near 11 o'clock the Lone Star school appeared, lead by their teacher, Mr A. Michael. Until this time the upper room failed to furnish room for all, so part collected on the school ground to indulge themselves in ball, while others congregated in the lower room and hall.

At 11:30 the school was dismissed in order to arrange dinner. Then we turned over the well-filled baskets, and rolled the "Jumbo" turkeys out on the table. Two tables the full length of the room were heavy loaded with turkey, chicken, cake, etc. There was hardly standing room for all; but we had plenty of eatables left. Aunt Polly brought to our realization once more the solemnity of the occasion, by returning thanks, and then we began each for himself. The enjoyment we realized in so meeting is better known than expressed.

At or near 12 o'clock we adjourned from the table to the meadow of Mr James Gray's, and then about fifty of us enjoyed one of the most pleasant games of ball of the season. The school house bell tolled regularly, not particularly to bring to our ears the memory of those departed turkeys; but to remind us that the girls did not intend to give us any rest until we came and fixed the stove pipe if they had to hollow fire! fire! fire!

About two o'clock the school was called to order and recitations were delivered by the school and others. We then resorted to spelling. Near 2:30 they yielded the laurels to Miss Yundt, and that ended the days program. Many thanks to the patrons, pupils and visitors.

The little childrens 10 cent concert Saturday night in the M. E. Church, for the benefit of the Sunday school was interesting, the little boys and girls although so small performed well; the Lords prayer was good. But the most interesting piece that was performed on the stage was by little Gerty Short, representing the little poor girl on the street, in its barefeet and rags, lamenting its condition. The piece was performed well, and it was as striking as the drama, Over the hills to the poor house.

Edward Pugelist's weight is about five hundred when he hears the boys sing Hail Columbia Happy Land, a new song he purchased to sing to his lady customer.

The hog trade is booming now, buyers are flying around over the country buying every fat hog they can get at $4.50 per hundred, but should it turn warm and rain in a few days, together with a rush of hogs to the market, we fear prices will drop and some of the boys will loose money.

Dear Delores,

I've had no luck what-so-ever on the PAUL family connection, although I still have at least one iron in the fire. I have put an ad (query) in the winter 1982 edition of "Your Family Tree" asking if anyone knows the present address of Mrs. St Clair. Only time will tell if this will bring results - at least there is a faint hope. Brethren names that start with "P" aren't too numerous, the only ones that come to mind quickly are: Paul, Parent, Puterbaugh and Petry - so there just isn't too much of a choice -- some day maybe.

I have gathered a bit of additional WISE data, but the more I get into this family the confuseder I get. I'll send you a very brief family sheet for John Wise Sr. & Mary Cripe - according to Don Bowman , 1981. All that I have just now. Here it is:

JOHN WISE, Sr. s/o Michael Wise m. MARY CRIPE, d/o Jacob Greib & Eliz. Ulrich
b. c 1754 - d.1821 b. c 1756 - d. 1786
likely seven children

C101. John Wise Jr. 1776-1844 m. (maybe) Elizabeth Puterbaugh - 1776 - ?
C102 female Wise c1778 no info
C103 Samuel Wise 1782-1867 m. Elizabeth Wolf c1786-1839
C104 Daniel Wise 1782-1867 m. Charlotte Weybright 1795-1870
*C105 Jacob Wise c1784-1845 m. 1st Sally ? 2nd Elizabeth (Hoover) Rarick
C106 Susann Wise 1785-1873 m. Jacob Spitler
C107 female Wise c1788- no info

This is all that I have on this family and I copied it from Don Bowman's Cripe talk at N. Manchester, Ind. Then in June 1979 Gale Honeyman sent this to me, we were working on the WISE family as related the "Annie Oakley" story and also as to the WISE who had Elizabeth Teeter Wise's first husband. Gale found this in Miami Co.,O.

*Jacob Wise left a will or estate #1428 - dated 30 Oct. 1845
c105 He left a widow, Elizabeth and issue :

1. Samuel Wise and wife Barbara
2. Jacob Wise, d. 2 Apr. 1878, aged 66y, 8m. - m. 13 Aug. 1834 Miami Co.,O. Jane SHOAF (or may have been Christiana SHOFE) bur. Wise Cem. """
3. Esther Wise, b. 2 Sept. 1808 - d. 1 Apr. 1873 - m. 19 Nov. 1839 " " Jacob Yorty - bur. Cable Cem., Newberry Twp., Miami Co., O.
4. Moses Wise, b. 18 June 1813 - d. 24 Nov. 1897 - m. 1st Elizabeth Burket - 13 ch m. 2nd 11 June 1881 Darke Co., O. Elizabeth Ullery (a widow) bur. Creak Cem. Newberry Twp., Miami Co., O. 4 ch. (Elizabeth (Sword) Ullery)
5. Sarah (Sally) Wise, b. 12 May 1818 - d. 6 July 1896 - m. Jacob Maurer bur. Wise Cem., Miami Co., O.
6. Catherine Wise m. Harvey D. Vanscoik
7. Magdalena Wise, d. 9 Dec. 1889 - aged 66/58 ?? 11m, 23 d. - m. 10 Jan. 1841 Michael Miller - bur Wise Cem.

Don Bowman says that this Jacob Wise was 1st married to a SALLY(prob. Sarah) ? and that she probably was mother of his children. Then he married as 2nd wife Elizabeth (Hoover) Rarick, who was d/o Christian Hoover & Ann Houser. And now to make all of this more confusing Janet Loring, in a letter dated 27 Aug. 1981, states that Christian Hoover's wife was not Anne Houser (at least not the d/o Martin, killed by Indians in 1777. So where do we go from here?

Now getting back to John Wise Jr. s/o John Wise Sr & Mary Cripe. We know that his wife's name was Elizabeth but have no proof of her maiden name. All we have is that Ethel Shively, a great granddaughter of Jacob Wise Jr. says the family tradition is that his wife was Elizabeth Puterbaugh. Mrs. Anna Wise Rowold has recently sent me some estate settlement records of Darke Co., Ohio for John Wise dated 1844. This settlement proves that the children of John Wise Jr. & Elizabeth (?) were

1. Mary Ann Wise - m. John A. Puterbaugh
2. John Wise - disappeared c1832 (who we thought m. Elizabeth Teeter - ??)
3. Jacob Wise - m. Emily Clapper (Annie Oakley's line)
4. Susannah Wise - m. William Johnston
5. Elizabeth Wise - m. George Gates
6. Daniel Wise - m. Catherine Longenecker
7. David Wise - m. Eliza Beeler

This settlement gives the married names of the 3 girls and it gives the names of the children (the same as we have them) of Jacob Wise, who was deceased at that time. This is another Jacob Wise that the one I gave on the other page - that Jacob Wise was a brother of the John Wise who was supposed to have m. Elizabeth Puterbaugh - do you follow?

But this settlement almost proves that the John Wise who we were thinking had married Elizabeth Teeter as her 1st husband - he just wasn't the one, so we are now back to square one on this one. But this ought to be enough WISE material to keep you confused for nearly all of the summer.

There probably will be quite a few of the GOOD BRETHREN that you met at N. Manchester, including Don Bowman, Keith Ross and quite a few others that will see you in Wichita in July. Since you have already met these people it will be like old home week for you. Have a good time.

Right at present SPRING done passed us up once more. It was getting real nice and then wham-o Old Mother Nature hit us with a big snowstorn and cold weather and it is forecast for another snowstorm to move in tonight - could be up to 5-7 inchs. I think that most of our fruit has already been killed for this year.

We (son Will and his wife Mary Ann and I) will be winging out way to N.Mexico 21 July I don't know whether we will fly over Kan. or not but if we do and if the pilot will let me, I'll blow the horn when we get right above Wichita - it should be about 8:00 P.M., be looking for us.

No the flood didn't reach down here even though Portland is built in a hole. There was a lot of water all around Berne (about 18 miles north and where Mother teachs) but it just barely got across the road in a few places and didn't cause too much trouble. It really is Geneva where the water get up (about 3 miles south of Berne) Geneva is where the Loblolly swamp is. This is where Gene Stratton Porter lived and where most of her books were written - her home there is now a State Muesum. Her husband was a druggist in Geneva and she roamed the swamp taking pictures and wrote about the "Limberlost" swamp. It is now almost all farm land but it does overflow at least once each year and sometimes a couple of times. Loblolly - Limberlost both same place.

About all I have just now.

RESPONSES TO QUERIES

The only response to queries in the last issue was to the query by #43, Laura Friedman. There was a Morgan R. (possibly Ringland) ~~Wise~~ born about the appropiate time in West Bethlehem, ~~Washington Co.~~, Pennsylvania to Joseph Wise, Sr. and ~~Parmelia~~ Barnard. Joseph was a grandson of Adam Christopher Wise, immigrant from Germany. Morgan R. married Kate Hook.

Q3-1 Searching for parents and place of birth of James Wise, Sr. who married Annie Robinson on 8/14/1878 in Wichita, Kansas and died c1895 in Lebo, Kansas. Annie Robinson was believed to have been born in Ontario, Canada and died 1905. Their son James William Wise, Jr. was born 7/14/1892 in Lebo, Kansas.

Q3-2 Would appreciate any information on a Wise family from the Van Wert, Ohio area which had the following four children, Jacob, George, Agatha and Mary Ann Wise. Mary Ann was born in the 1840's, married David A. Elick on 3/8/1866 and died 1873 in Payne, Ohio. Either one of the sons or the husband of Agatha was a minister.

Q3-3 Searching for the maiden name of the wife of John Wise, Jr. (c1776-1844) born in Pa.(probably Huntingdon Co.) and moved to Darke Co. Ohio about 1834.
